Brimming with history and well-known for its antique shops, Centerville dates back to 1814. The second oldest town in Wayne County, Centerville became the county seat in 1818 and began to grow and prosper.

*With the influx of settlers, businesses sprang up, and the stage was set for history to begin.
Centerville has been*

THE OLD SALISBURY COURTHOUSE - Wayne County's first seat of justice built 1811 in Salisbury, reconstructed in 1952. It's the only original log courthouse standing in the Old Northwest Territory.

ISREAL ADAMS and DANIEL LANTZ HOME - These two connecting buildings housed an important early wagon shop. Upstairs, above the wagon shop was the oldest Masonic Meeting room in eastern Indiana, access to which was reached only by the narrow stairway recessed in the archway. Connected by a small wall and yard between was another wagon shop. Daniel Lantz brought in Mr. Cunningham to work here for there was too much business for one man to handle. This house is now lived in by CHS junior Susan Alcorn.

MANSION HOUSE - Early Centerville inn, tavern and stagecoach station where an exchange of horses was made. This office, the Western Stage Co., as a gathering place to hear news of the outside world.

the home of numerous famous persons including Oliver P. Morton, Indiana's Civil War governor and the namesake of this publication.

Other famous names here include James B. Ray, also an Indiana

governor; Lew Wallace, governor of New Mexico and author of Ben Hur;

RARIDEN HOME - James Rariden moved here because he wanted to see what was going on "uptown." He was elected several times to legislature and congress 1837-1841. He entertained Henry Clay here while Clay was running for president. Jeff Bridgford, CHS junior, is proud to live here now.

William Meredith, head of the U.S. Bureau of Printing and Engraving, and George W. Julian,

COUNTY JAIL AND SHERIFF'S RESIDENCE - This Italian Renaissance style building was in use in the 1820's.

JAMES HOWELL HOME - Highest point between the Appalachian Mts. and the Mississippi River on Old Natl. Rd.

horse, was born here. Centerville was the home of Whitewater College.

During the Civil War, 50 southern sympathizers from Abington, called 'Butternuts,' armed themselves and marched into Centerville.

Centerville men prepared to fight, and Richmond sent 100 men to help protect the town. When the raiders saw the troops, they became disorganized and were chased back to Abington.

Meanwhile the railroads came to Richmond, and it soon surpassed Centerville in population, transportation and business. After much controversy, the county seat was moved to Richmond. When the men came to get the county records,

HAPPENINGS

Students' relationships with their school is more than an eight hour session with books, pencils and lengthy lectures. After the last bell rings and the parking lot empties, students assemble and assume new roles. They become carpenters, draftsmen, salesmen and artists. Whether the result is a dance, a parade, a bake sale or a carnival, the same energetic enthusiasm and determination shine through.

Overseeing main events this year were four junior student government officers. Highlighting this year's activities was the return of a three-day mini course program where students dropped their routine schedules and took part in other areas of interest.

Involvement is a key word at CHS. Its presence is always visible but more importantly, its results are always visible. The satisfaction of knowing that your contribution made the effort a success makes it all worthwhile.

"Birthday Club" Salutes Past 200

While the town of Centerville busily planned activities in honor of our nation's 200th birthday, a group of patriotic students joined efforts at CHS to do their share in the celebration.

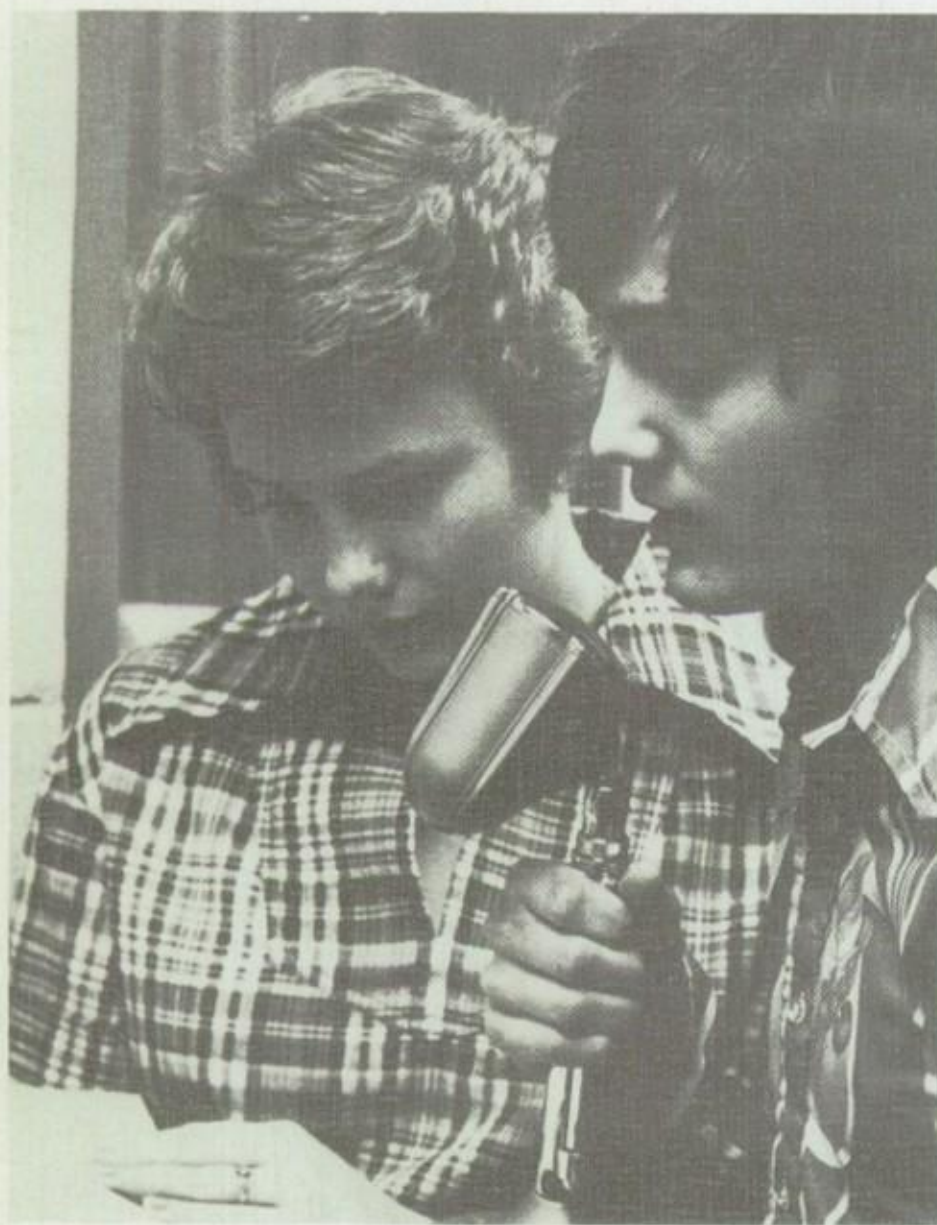

Roy Behymer and Sherry Cheek daily represented the 20 some members of the Bicentennial Club by giving announcements telling interesting facts of our nation's past years.

Club member Dave Brockman participated in the community Liberty Pole raising ceremony in April while Tami Noble and Linda McCurdy experimented with red, white and blue on a school fire hydrant. History teachers Phil Stevenson and Mrs. Sada Urmston were sponsors.

Raul and Marco, our Spanish friends, added a special extra to our lives at CHS.

Marco and Raul Welcomed at CHS

The arrival of two Spanish speaking foreign exchange students plus the excitement of a 10-day adventure in Mexico made students at CHS aware that exchanging cultures can be not only knowledgeable but also a lot of fun.

From just south of the border in Monterrey, Mexico came 18-year-old Marco Cortes. Marco arrived in December and lived with the Jack Soper family during his six-month stay. He commented, "Everyone has been so nice to me - the teachers, students, Mr. Howell. I felt at home."

Arriving in early January from Santiago, Chile was 16-year-old Raul Croquevielle. A senior here, Raul lived with the family of Mark and Todd Rhoda. Although he enjoyed his stay here, Raul was anxious to return home to see his new baby brother born in late April.

Pyramids, statues, beautiful flowers and, of course, a bullfight were just a few of the sights seen by those traveling to Mexico during spring vacation. While some students took in all of the cultural sites, other found that the people themselves were just as fascinating.

These CHS students, parents and faculty spent 10 days taking in the sights and enjoying the warm Mexican sun.

Leaving for Mexico had only one drawback for Andy Price.

Bible Club Sponsors Super Convo.

Members of Bible Club listen to a recorded message at their weekly meeting while thinking of discussion ideas.

With their own special "library" of cassettes and reference materials, Bible Club learned more of the Christian life and how to better relate to it. The tapes proved not only interesting and knowledgeable but provided for group discussions.

Led by three juniors, Billy Smith, president; Mark Schlotterbeck, vice president, and Kathy Sayne, secretary-treasurer, the club helped sponsor three of the year's convocations.

For fellowship, the Bible Club had a Christmas program-party at Mr. Schlotterbeck's, the club sponsor. To complete the evening, the group went caroling.

Girls Recognized to Form Own FCA

Fellowship of Christian Athletes this year no longer was limited to the male gender, as last summer, girls were nationally recognized to form their own separate meetings for the organization.

Eight girls rounded the roster under the leadership of Louanne Schlotterbeck, president; Rhonda Young, vice president; Ruth Snyder, secretary, and Kathy Morgan, treasurer. Mrs. Ralph Wampole and Mrs. Melvin Smoker were sponsors. Being new didn't stop the girls from getting involved as they helped sponsor three convocations. They, along with the boys, held Staff Appreciation Day in the spring.

FCA boys, plus various teachers and students, shared a common goal at the annual Donkey Basketball game held Nov. 5. All tried to maintain some degree of dignity as the fearless burros sent them crashing to the floor. The money earned will be used to help send the guys to the National Conference this year at Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

An all-night gym session plus a swim at the YMCA rounded out the boys' activities.

Centurions

Give Impressive Performances

Whether leading the CHS marching band to a first-place finish in the Cambridge City Canal Days competition or presenting the colors between games during basketball season, the Centurions added color and class to numerous events throughout the year.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Marsha Powell and Miss Vicki Study, the marching group also put on shows at halftime of football and basketball games with some nifty choreography and brightly-colored pom-poms. Impressive describes the group's shows.

Swing Choir members practice early every morning and any spare minute they can find including fourth period during class.

Singing before 300 members of the Production Credit Association was among the highlights for the 12-member Swing Choir which also entertained at intermission of the play, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown." Halftime of the donkey basketball game also found the musical group performing as it did at the spring style show.

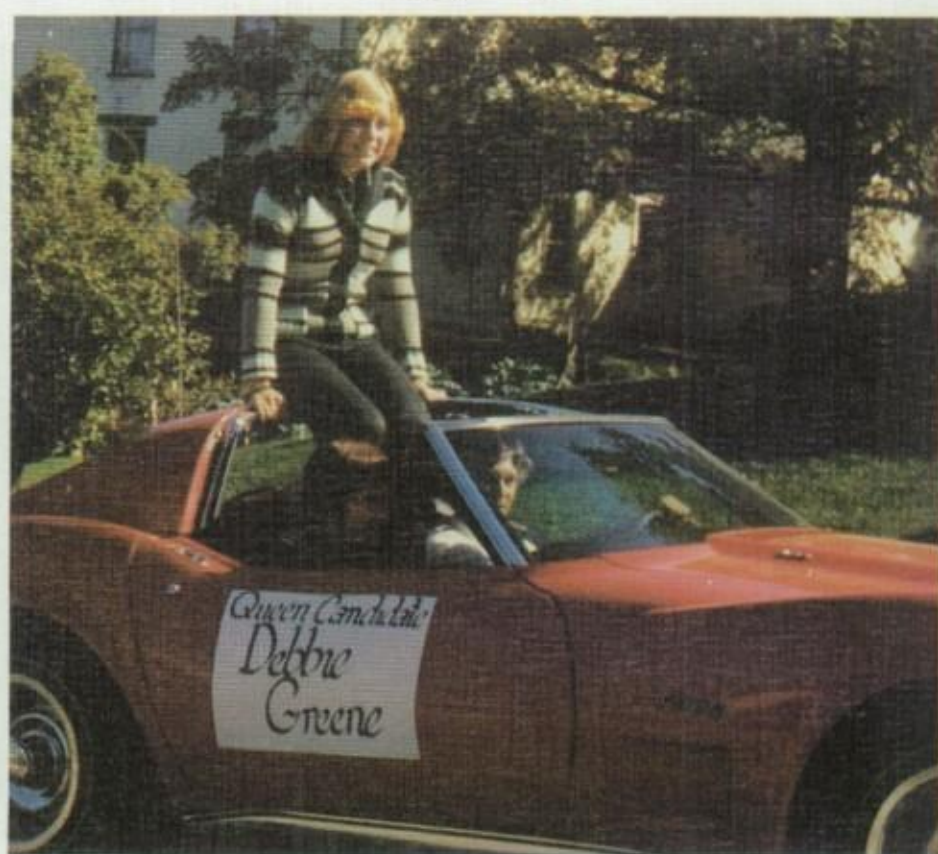

Memorizing music, learning to control arguments including who is off key and attempting to get to school by 7:30 a.m. for practice also were on the day-by-day agenda of swing choir members.

Lori Lee Crowned Homecoming Queen

Displaying true red, white and blue patriotism, CHS students, clubs and various community organizations saluted America's Bicentennial with the Oct. 4 Homecoming Parade.

Leading the parade was Grand Marshal Marv Wissler. Well known not only as a Centerville citizen, Mr. Wissler is a recently retired employee of the school system having served 13 years.

Following close behind were some 50 entries, thus making the longest parade in CHS history. Featured were four class plus three community floats, all vying for the prize trophies.

Afternoon festivities brought a smile to many, especially to the junior class as it received two winning trophies for its float, "Bulldog Tea Party." It took awards for best class and best theme. Sophomores grabbed the best workmanship trophy with the "Hagerstown Massacre."

CHS football fans watched proudly as the Big Blue Machine rolled over the Hagerstown Tigers 20-8. With halftime came the crowning of senior Lori Lee as Homecoming Queen. The crowd was also entertained as the marching band and Centurions displayed their talent.

As the day ended and floats were just torn tissue and empty frames, all those involved in the day's activities had the satisfaction of knowing that theirs was a job well done.

Y-Teens Have New Programs

Affiliated with the YWCA but holding meetings at the high school, the Y-teens was one of the busiest clubs around. Consisting of 80 members, its activities ranged from parades to flower arranging.

Each monthly meeting brought a new talent demonstration provided by community members who shared skills in Judo, flower arranging, cake decorating and candle making.

With spring came the annual mother-daughter banquet, the state-wide conference, inductions and a day at Hueston Woods.

To produce a financial foundation, the Y-teens sponsored a Sadie Hawkins dance and crowned four class kings. Sponsor Mrs. Perry along with President Jill Markley, Vice President Cathy Vernon, Treasurer Sandy Richardson, Secretary Cathi Angi and Ladona Webb worked hard to make the year a success.

A Busy Year for CHS Ecologists

One of the most active groups of students at CHS, Ecology Club, kept busy by involving itself in many useful state and community projects.

Students made a trip to one of the state's game and fishing reserves, Martindale, where they cleaned around trees which the club had planted years ago.

Another important project was reconstructing the rail fence around the old courthouse. They also planted roses here.

Money was donated by the club to the science department at CHS for the new outdoor lab and also for test kits.

Scratch pads were sold to the student body and were a welcomed gift to teachers at Christmas.

Club members tested water in nearby areas, checking the oxygen and carbon dioxide count.

Also, being a member of the national organization SPUR, the club helped the company by stapling and mailing their newsletter.

As a fund raiser, the club showed the movie "Toby Tyler" in the school cafeteria.

Seniors Billie Reimer and Sharon Parker check the flowers planted around the school.

Jim Kempton, Brad Howell, John Hoodlebrink and Mark Baldwin finish work on the courthouse fence.

Legislators Travel to Capital

Composed of 120 high school students in grades 10 through 12, this year's Wayne County Model Legislature proved to be the most serious and convincing of the program's three-year history.

The use of strategies, party politics, and controversial issues, coupled with strict adherence to present state constitutional laws gave a true-to-life account of the many facets involved in state politics. Also adding to the effects was the use of State House Legislative Chambers in Indianapolis for two of the four-day program.

Leadership elections were held at IU East where Centerville showed well by taking three of five leadership positions. Presiding over the model legislature was CHS senior Ken Yerkes. Other students from Centerville with leadership roles were C. J. Ringwall, speaker of the house, and Jim LaMar, house minority leader.

With the concluding session came awards for outstanding committee and legislative members. C. J. Ringwall was recognized as the Outstanding Male Legislator. Committee members from CHS voted as outstanding were Kelly Corwin, Cities and Towns, Donna Shaw, Education, and Karen Whittaker, Courts and Criminal Codes.

'Peanuts' Strip Becomes Reality

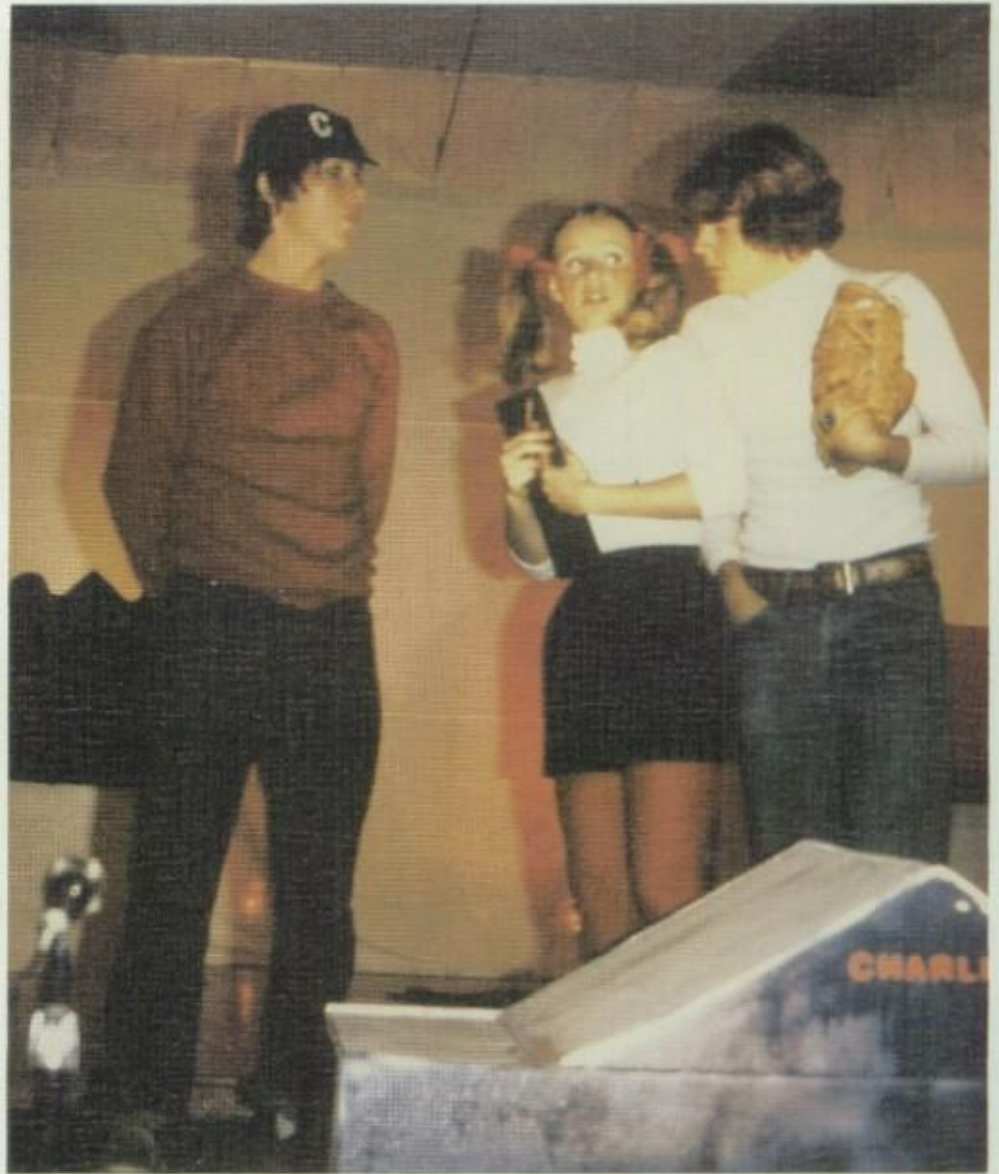

Lines to be memorized, tiring rehearsals, nervous butterflies, and then all too soon, it's over. And what is there to show for it?

The CHS Drama Club has plenty! The musical, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," staged on Nov. 14 and 15, captured the hearts of both young and old. Both nights had capacity crowds.

Filling the lead roles were Ray Dickerson as Charlie Brown; Kelly Corwin as Lucy; Tim Jacobs as Snoopy; Kelly Frame as Patty; Eddie Christian as Linus; Roy Behymer as Schroeder, and Louanne Schlotterbeck as the little red-headed girl.

Patty puckers her lips as she sings out the tunes to "Home, Home on the Range."

Snoopy harasses Lucy as she questions Charlie about her crabiness survey.

Schroeder tells of the greatness of Beethoven, but Patty is still unconvinced.

FFA Holds Convo, Travels to Kansas

Participating in many judging contests, the FFA judging teams placed well. Poultry finished first and fourth, Forestry first and third, Entomology third, Dairy first and seventh, Soil third and fifth, and Crops third.

To begin the year, 10 senior members went to a one-week FFA convention in Kansas City where they listened to Johnny Bench, John Conley and many other speakers. For the first time, club members are competing with other schools in FFA basketball.

To highlight the year, the group held a convocation in which students competed in contests, such as hog calling, nail driving, straw bale throwing and sawing. Prizes were awarded to the winners.

Sophomore Karen Crowe expresses a determined look, as she participates in the sawing contest while FFA member Bill Rohe looks on.

1st and 10 = Business

Junior cheerleaders Jeff Bridgford, Bill Hemperly and Jerry Wright display their somewhat awkward talent as they cheer for juniors and sophomores at the powder puff football game, sponsored by the Business Club.

The Business Club began its busy and exciting schedule with a powder puff football game. The freshmen and seniors matched strength with the sophomores and juniors. Their schedule ended in May with their annual trip to King's Island.

In between they enjoyed a Christmas party at Kathy Kutter's, listened to two guest speakers, toured PRC record company and sponsored a school skate. Some of the money made by the club was spent on different items for the school.

Those holding office included President Elaine Beier, Vice President Don Wetzal, Secretary Angela Cheesman, and Treasurer Bill Hemperly.

Frosted Memories . . . Snowy Dreams

With the winter holidays come sleepy mornings, Christmas preparations and couples sharing the season's warmth and cheer at the Christmas Ball held Dec. 13 in the Lee Outland Gym.

Highlight of the evening was the crowning of Queen Becky Wampole and King Mike Wamsley. Tami Pope, Sandy Richardson and Pam Eikenberry reigned as class princesses.

The evening, sponsored by SAC, marked the first time the dance had been held in the gym. A protective coating of cornstarch covered the transformed courts and created some awkward dance steps as couples slid across the floor.

Reflecting on snowy days of the past, couples moved effortlessly to the sounds of "Metamorphosis," a band from Muncie.

Mini course committee members Ken Centers, Mrs. Urmston, Lisa Turner and Ann Orsborn were responsible for the three-day event.

Under the direction of Mrs. Urmston, Ken Centers, Lisa Turner, and Ann Orsborn, the mini course program was termed a success. For three days students participated in one, two or three of the 63 classes offered from knitting to sports parachuting.

Almost 40 businessmen, specialists and professionals from the area donated their time in an attempt to teach students something new and different. Faculty members joined in the fun with either teaching or learning themselves.

To see girls in an auto mechanics class or boys in a cooking class proved that most students were taking advantage of the opportunity to expand their knowledge.

A.V. Equipment Must Go Through

Not recognized with letters, grades or credit but performing a vital service to the school were the boys of Mrs. Darma Smoker who made sure audio visual equipment was where it was to be when it was to be there.

Dodging movie projectors, tape recorders or other kinds of A.V. equipment rolling towards classrooms became an art as the boys responsible for the equipment let no man, woman or child stop them from their daily deliveries.

About 25 students officially belonged to the Chess Club but only a few participated regularly. Sponsored by Miss Diane Werne, the club competed in two matches against Dennis Junior High; losing both.

Supporters Support Sports

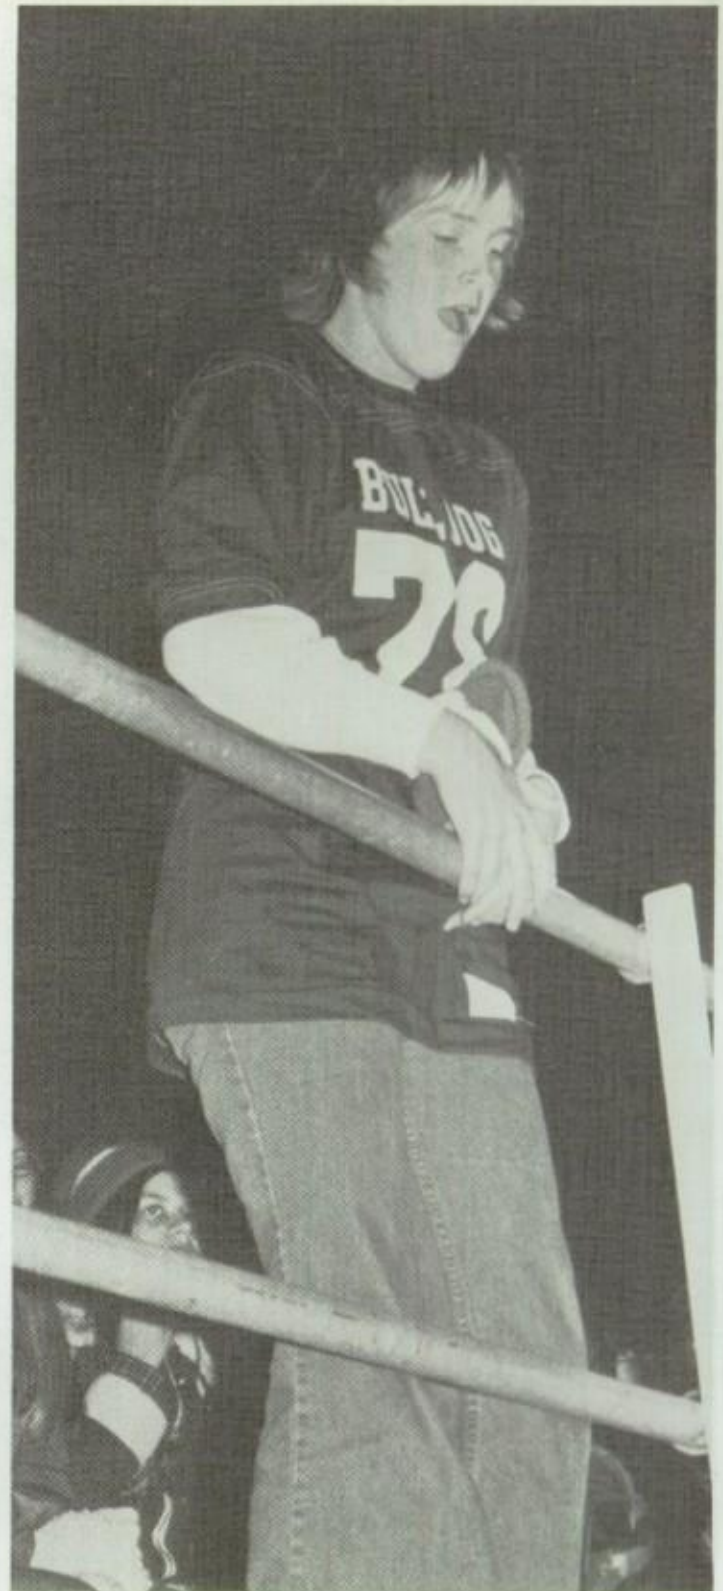

Being one of our largest organizations, the Blue Pride Backers, sponsored by Mrs. Schlotterbeck and Mrs. Senters, raised $30 at the varsity basketball tourney for the March of Dimes, donated $50 to the cheerleaders for new pom-poms and sold blue and white derbies during sectional week.

To keep the basketball players in the spirit, the backers made individual valentines for every player while basketball coach Mike Richardson helped organize the Athletic Supporters, a boys block consisting of about 50 guys. Although the numbers dwindled somewhat as the season progressed, the faithful followers kept things moving with their favorite cheer, "EXLAX."

The Bulldog Buddies decorated lockers, baked cookies and supported the athletes while during basketball season, Mary Beth Fenney was chosen tumbling mascot and Rebecca Schlotterbeck the Bulldog mascot.

"On the Threshold of a Dream"

On the Threshold of a Dream, Carla Toschlog and Tom Williams were crowned King and Queen of the 1976 Junior-Senior Prom at the Knights of Columbus Hall. The coronation was done by junior class president Carl Ringwall after much waiting and anticipation. Carla was presented with a tiara and a dozen roses while Tom received an I.D. bracelet.

Couples danced "On the Threshold of a Dream" from 9:00-1:00, dancing to the music of "Rainbo." The junior class gave dance booklets and wine goblets as mementos of the evening. Refreshments were served by the Abington Volunteer Fire Department.

Following the dance, couples traveled in caravan to the CHS cafeteria to watch "American Grafetti." Immediately following the movie, breakfast was served by the Centerville Jaycees.

NHS Helps Out

Twenty-six juniors and seniors joined the 19 current Honor Society members during induction ceremonies in April. Held before parents, faculty and student body, the candle-light service was followed by a reception given in honor of the new members.

In addition to conducting tours of the building during open house in November, Honor Society members helped schedule the student body for mini-courses. Because of the March 12 tornado, an Honor Society convocation had to be cancelled.

Diction, Dimension, and Deadlines

Cathy Angi, Bulldog Banner editor, gives the "evil eye" to a loafing staff member.

DEADLINE - To those who so painstakingly donate their time and talents to make both the Mortonian and Bulldog Banner a success, this word means rattled nerves, bitten fingernails, and throbbing headaches. The word is respected by all. It sends nimble hands into motion, writing, typing, pasting and cropping. It puts sweat on the brow and mass confusion in the darkroom. Time seems to laugh at the mad efforts being exercised. It has no thought whatsoever to befriend the poor souls but enjoys ticking away ever so quickly.

Yet somehow, some way, all survive. The product is finished and, at last, the final result is presented for inspection. It is then when one sits back and reflects on the bustle of days gone by, he perhaps finds it sad that it's over.

Mass Confusion

May 27 was a day of excitement. Students rushed from class to class receiving the final report on how they did the past year.

During the few short hours of the morning, people were shoved, toes were stepped on, and the teachers hid under the desks to get out of the mass confusion, but by 10:30 not a soul was to be seen in the halls of CHS. The students left in a whirlwind, leaving behind teachers, custodians, and Mr. Howell in a daze.

136 Receive Diplomas

One-hundred thirty-six seniors saw their commitments and hard work come to an end as they received their diplomas on May 27.

Following the opening program was a message brought by Rev. Paul Merryman followed by the speeches of three graduating seniors. Jim LaMar spoke of the coming "Horizons," Donna Shaw presented "Reflections," and "Until Tomorrow" was presented by Cathi Angi. Closing the program was Rev. Charles Voit with the benediction.

JOCKS

Many long hours of hard work and determination were put in by CHS athletes the past year. The girls bowling team led the way as they captured the state championship. Also, the gymnastic team grabbed a sectional victory in the beginning level.

The football squad ended the year with an 8-1 record, which was the finest ever compiled at Centerville. Another successful group was the wrestling team which finished the season undefeated in dual meets. Exhibiting their Bulldog spirit, every athlete at CHS sacrificed much of their time in devoting themselves to achieving perfection in their chosen field of athletics.

Varsity Adds 1 Leader

With one addition to the varsity squad and another successful spirit week, the cheerleaders worked the year through sponsoring various projects to raise money to purchase new uniforms.

Arriving home from camp, the spirit girls brought home again the red, white and blue spirit stick and the chance to become state champ cheerleaders.

With a good offense and a sticky defense the Bulldog reserve team rolled up a 3-2 record. Under the leadership of Coach Bill Richardson, the team compiled scores of 42-0 against Northeastern and 46-0 over Union County, plus annihilating previously undefeated Knightstown also by a 46-0 score.

Mr. Richardson reflected that the varsity will receive a ton of talent next year. He said any reserve team that can score 142 points to their opponents' 14 in a single season is bound to strengthen the varsity.

Young Bulldogs Take Two

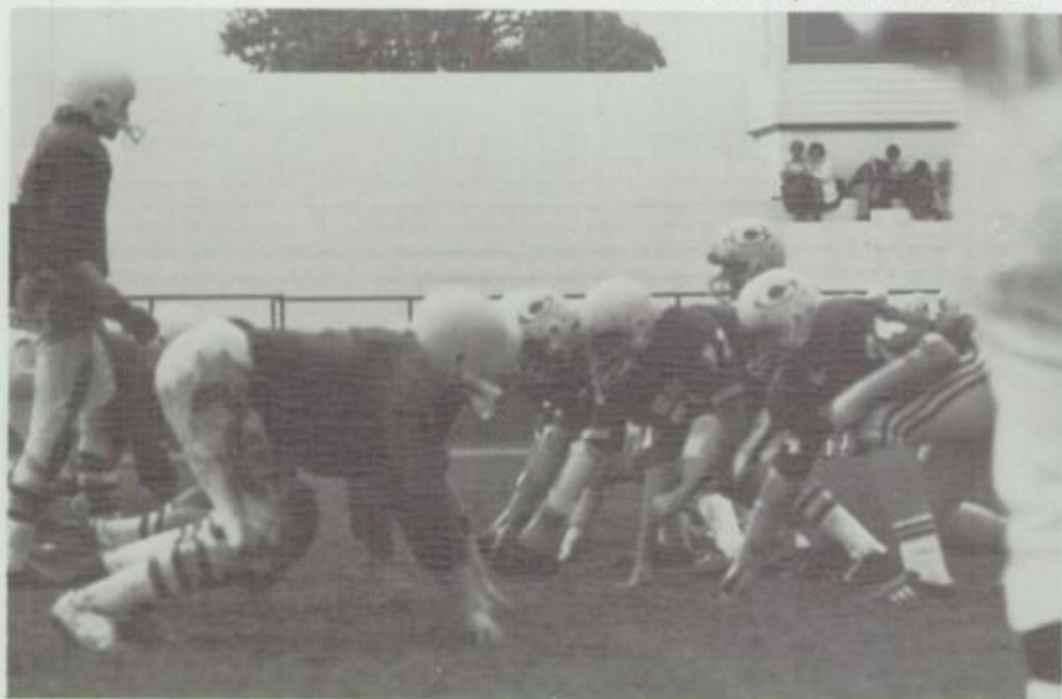

Consisting of 32 team members, the freshman football squad showed its best performance of the year against the Tri High Titans, a team which as eighth graders, battled the Bulldogs to a tie. With plays such as the "look-in" and the "split end reverse," the Bulldogs went on to whip the Titans 14-0. The team's other victory came against Hagerstown 20-6.

Under the leadership of Coach Jerry Kramer, the young Bulldogs ended their season 2-4. Leading scorers for the frosh included Doug Petty, Ed Lang and Butch Evans. Lang and Evans emerged at season's end as the team's leading rushers while two of the more outstanding defensive players were Wendell Wadsworth and Kelvin Johnston.

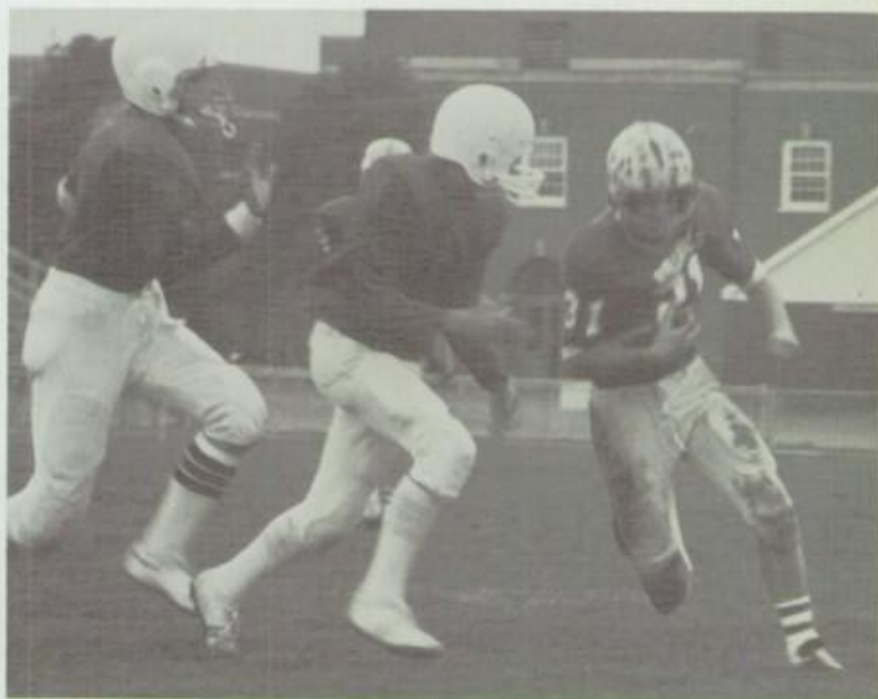

Many players commented that they gained basic fundamentals and much valuable playing time which helped to sharpen their gridiron skills and prepare them for next season.

Cagers Grab Sectional Victory

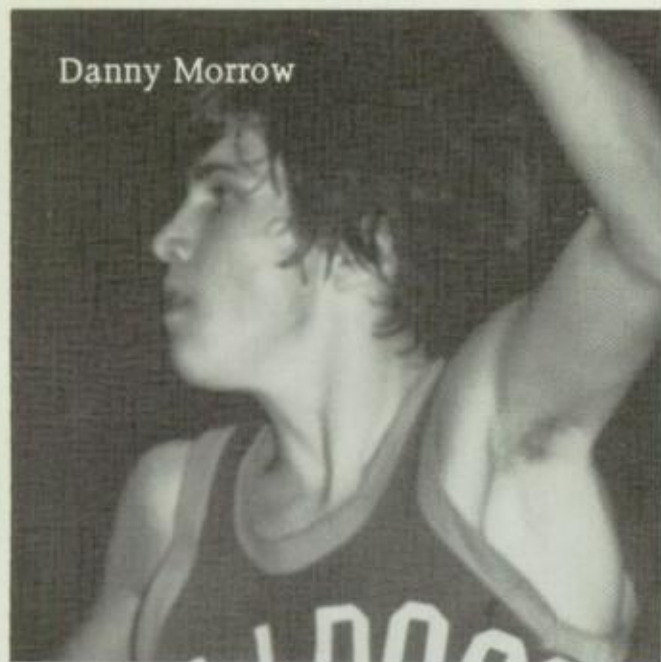

MVP - Mike Skaggs

CHS varsity roundballers, led by new Coach Mike Richardson, capped off a somewhat disappointing season by winning three of their final four games. One of these came in the Richmond sectional against Hagerstown, a team which had defeated the Bulldogs for the championship of the 4-way tourney held at the Lee Outland Gymnasium. In the nail-biting first game of the sectional, Centerville nipped the Tigers 57-55 on a shot by Jerry Jones with two seconds remaining on the clock. This was also the first sectional game win for CHS since 1969.

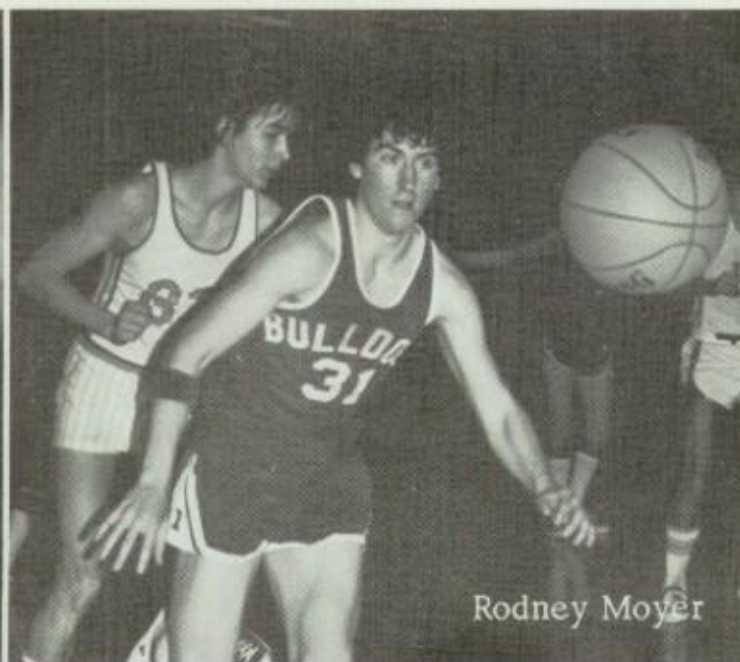

Jones finished as the squad's leading scorer with a 15.3 average. The rebound department was headed by Mike Skaggs with a total of 198 in 20 games, while Chris Stone topped the free throw category with an .807 mark.

One factor which hurt the cagers considerably was the loss of senior forward Tom Williams. Jerry Jones was named All TEC and Chris Stone was elected honorary captain.

The reserve team coached by Mr. Charles Byrket closed the season with a fine 13-7 record.

Christmas was a blessing for the Bulldogs because after they returned, they won 11 games and lost only 3.

Among the outstanding games were Blue River and Union County with the best game of the season being Monroe Central which the Bulldogs won 60-57.

The return of Barry McKee, who had suffered a football injury, and the improvement of George Shaw and Tim Fields, proved to be big factors during the year with Shaw being the leading rebounder.

Mr. Byrket said all of the men worked very hard this year.

The freshman team under the leadership of first-year Coach Gary Baker came to season's end with a 1-13 record.

For the freshman team the leading scorers were Darrin Dailey, Glade Montgomery and Rick Revalee, and the leading rebounders were Kelvin Johnston, Dailey and Revalee. Highlights of the season were the victory over Lincoln 30-29 and the losses to Union County 41-28 and Winchester 54-42.

Mr. Baker commented that he was pleased with the continued improvement throughout the season. The main problem was the lack of consistency which he felt was the downfall of the team.

Don Berry to semi-state, champs in the Lawrenceburg 4-Way tourney, defeating undefeated Union County for its only loss and beating Hagerstown in its own gym highlighted the grapplers' undefeated dual meet season.

To top off the highlights was the lasting thought of only one loss within the last two years on varsity level competition.

Helping to carry the undefeated title was the reserve squad which consisted of Mike Cockerill, Tim Moistner, Butch Evans, Scott Hemperly, Mike Moore, Robbie Ravencraft, Gary Spotts, Bret Downing, Tony Cockerill, Jerry Rader, Steve Skaggs, Tim Bussen and John Davis, all freshmen; Jeff Bridgford, junior, and Vincent Foust, senior.

"This is the most freshmen I have ever had, and if they work hard and stick together, they could become one of the best wrestling teams ever from Centerville," commented Coach Kramer.

Greg Minor, freshman, in his first year of wrestling, emerged as an undefeated varsity wrestler.

Markley Advances to Regional

MVP 1976 - Jill Markley

The CHS girls' tennis team ended its season with a fine 6-3 record in dual meets. The squad was led into the sectional by Jill Markley, who was seeded second. Miss Markley proved herself worthy of this ranking by winning four matches before she was defeated in the finals. However, because of her second place showing, she qualified for the regional at Muncie.

Coach Norma Crabtree commented that she was very pleased with the girls' season. She also said that the loss of Gwen Combs, Lori Williamson, Cathy Vernon, Debbie Dowler, Jo Horn and Jill Markley, due to graduation, would leave next year's team with little experience. However, with Lisa Senters and Robin Morrow, two full-time varsity performers, returning, and considering the reserve record of 6-1, next year could be even better!

MVP - Gretchen Stuck

Crunching Union City for the first time ever, highlighted the girl tracksters' season.

Linda Harness, team manger, worked with coach Lewis and kept the girls running to a 3-2 record, with third placings in the Centerville Invitational and also in the Connersville-Lincoln meet.

Sophomore Gretchen Stuck set the new Invitational shot-put record with a toss of 37 feet and one inch.

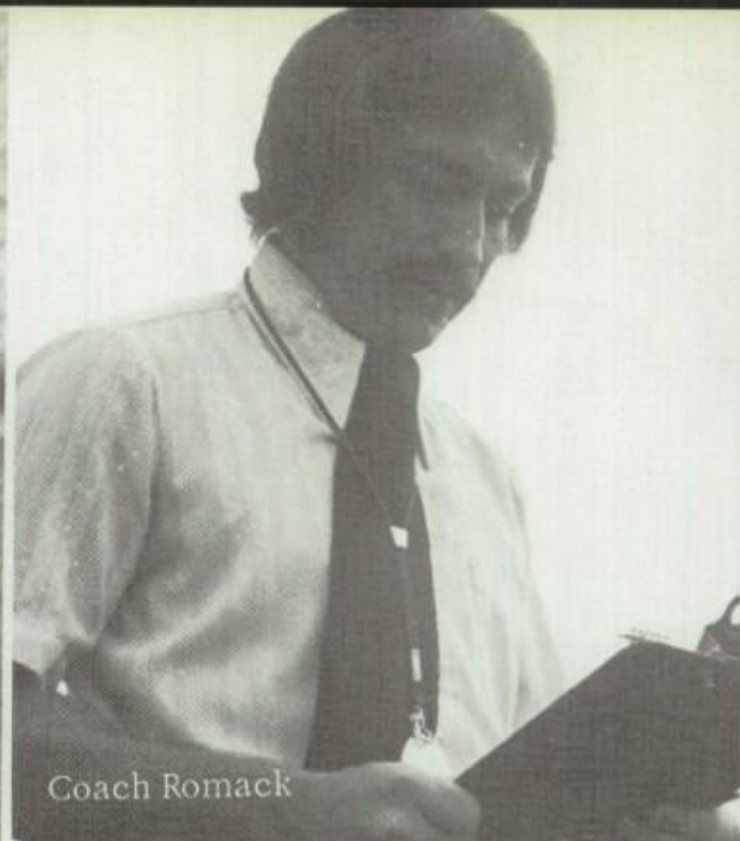

The team consisted of one senior, seven juniors, eight sophomores and six freshmen, with Jill McClain and Gretchen Stuck, two sophomores, and junior Melinda Kuriter, qualifying for the sectional.

Mrs. Lewis said, "Kay Gilmore, Carol Senefeld, Kris Fahien, Jill McClain, Kristi Uhl, Melinda Kuriter and Cathy Oberle really worked hard as did Linda Harness, who as manager, worked harder than anyone as far as attitude is concerned."

MVP - Jeff Beach

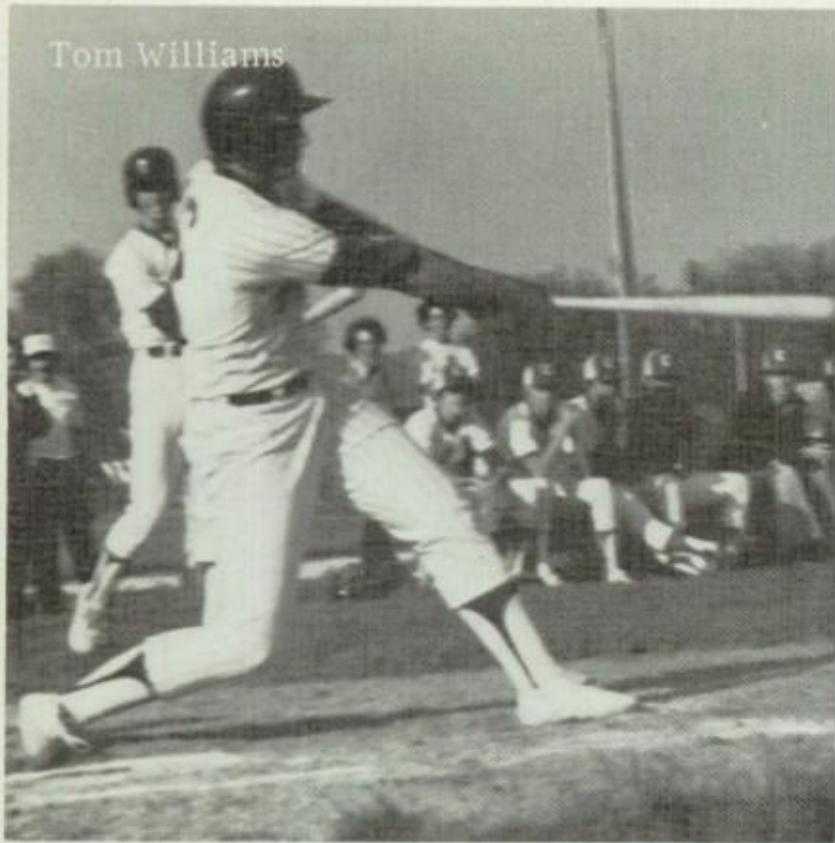

CHS Golfers, led by record-setting Jeff Beach, closed out an outstanding season with a fine fourth place finish in the Richmond Sectional. Beach established new school records for nine and eighteen holes with his scores of 36 and 78. However, it still wasn't enough to push the Bulldogs into third place, which would have qualified them for the regional. They finished an agonizing four strokes behind Winchester.

Winchester was a constant thorn in the Bulldogs' side, handing them their only loss in the TEC during regular season action. They also won the Conference meet with Centerville ending up second, their best showing ever.

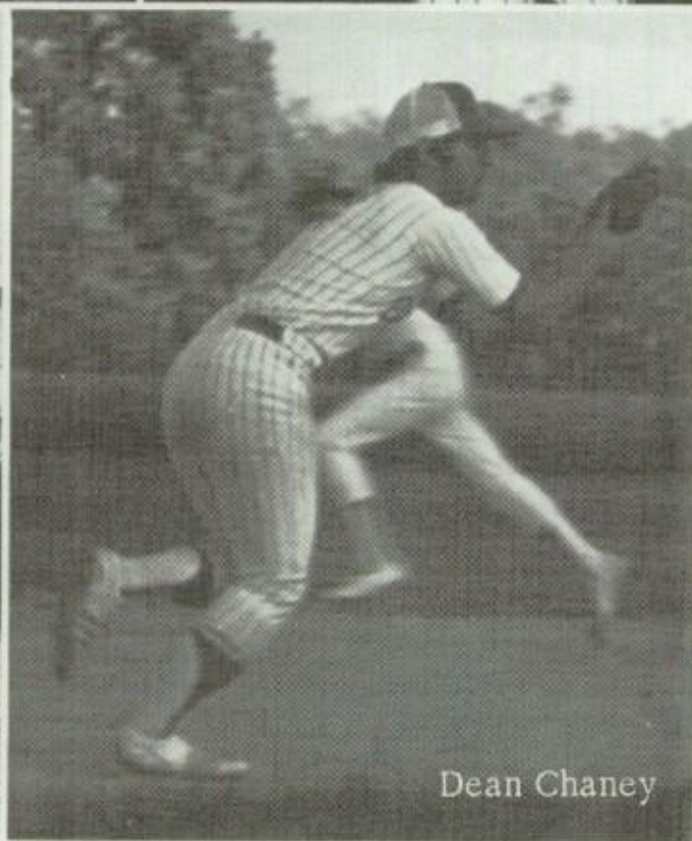

The varsity team consisted of Jeff Brown, Jerry Wright, Jeff Bridgford, and Don Wetzel, all Juniors, sophomore Jeff Beach and freshman Glade Montgomery. Coach Mike Richardson commented that the competition among these six was unbelievable, with each boy trying his hardest to surpass the one in front of him. He also stated that he was looking forward to next year, especially since all of the team will be returning.

Bulldog Bowl Proves Blue Pride

MVP - Mike Wamsley - pitching his no-hitter.

As doubts of the field being finished gathered in the minds of CHS citizens, contests were held between gym classes, homerooms and coaches to ensure the field of being ready for the first home battle.

Thanks go to Mr. Craig as he sweated it out as did many lunch hour students with the Blue Pride persistence of having the field ready for the ball players as they played for the first time ever in CHS history of "their" field.

Also for the first time ever, the Bulldogs traveled to Sugar Creek, Ohio, for a double header which ended as a split. Between games, Coach Richardson treated the squad to the Hall of Fame games. Consisting of seven seniors, eight juniors and one sophomore, the team suffered through the season ending with a 6-13 mark.

"We tried and lost - we play all the teams again next year - we'll try harder," said Coach Richardson.

Sophomore Leads Team Hits, Runs

Leading the team in runs scored, RBI's and batting average, sophomore Brad Howell held a batting average of .378 followed by freshman Doug Cox with a .370 average.

With a one-hitter off CHS pitcher Curt Gossett, the team finished the season with a record of four wins and eight losses.

Being a season of "getting it all together again," the first Hagerstown game which went into nine innings, the second Lincoln game and the first Northeastern game, a 12-0 victory, were the best ball games of the 75-76 season, commented Coach Richard Lee.

Consisting of five freshmen, six sophomores, and three juniors, the team looks to the future.

On a cold Saturday afternoon six CHS girls experienced the ultimate thrill of competing in athletics - winning a state championship. To do so, they had to defeat a field of twenty-three teams, which had gathered from all parts of Indiana. When you consider that the tournament was held at the Expo Bowl in Indianapolis, an establishment which had opened the night before and was seeing its first action the day of the tourney, their accomplishment is made even greater.

At the conclusion of regular season action, Team I ended up in fourth place in the EIHS Girl's Bowling League. They were followed by Teams III and II in fifth and sixth place, respectively. The state championship won by the girls was the first ever claimed by an athletic squad at CHS.

THE GRIND

Mrs. Fricke receives Teacher of the Year Award from Mr. Harrison.

The main purpose of school is to learn. Without education we are nothing. If it weren't for education and learning this great country would not be here to celebrate its 200th birthday.

Without men like Washington, Hancock, Jefferson, and Lincoln, we would be nowhere. Without education, these men would be nowhere.

Learning and education come in many forms and ways. You can learn by experience, by trial, by observing. Sometimes a picture is worth a thousand words.

Learning by custom is supposed to be hard, boring, tiresome, difficult, in short, a real "Grind." Although teachers do their best to arrest this and make school enjoyable, you just can't change a custom that's lasted 200 years.

English, a subject taken by everyone, added two new classes this year. Science Fiction, a nine weeks course, mixed fantasy and fact while discovering the world of the future. The other new class, creative writing, put together booklets called PERSPECTIVES consisting of the best writings of students in all classes and sold them to junior high and high school students.

Speech class activities included debates, radio plays and various kinds of speeches which helped students develop good speaking habits. Scanning the local and area newspapers for articles about CHS and the community for a scrapbook were more than 80 students, the most ever taking Journalism I.

Ninth grade English classes acted out plays, studied mythology and wrote poetry. Flying through literature and grammar books, tenth grade students also studied Shakespeare's plays HAMLET and JULIUS CAESAR. American Literature classes enjoyed reading books from the Revolutionary and Colonial period and learning the lifestyles of the Puritans.

English classes read magazines, worked on various kinds of word puzzles and spent a lot of their spare time in the library.

Rhessa Aughe tells "How to Give Your Dog a Bath" for her demonstration speech.

Everyone listens with smiles on their faces as they try to figure out the punch line to another one of Mr. McCaslin's jokes during second period Journalism I class.

Denise Anderson, ninth grade English, underlines the correct answer.

Kathy Morgan and Ruth Snyder work diligently as Mike McDonald and Steve Thompson daydream.

Shelley Harris goes over the instructions one more time before writing her paper for advanced composition.

Mexico or Bust

Words of "Hola" and "Si" filled the halls leading some people to believe the school was being taken over by foreigners as Spanish classes were popular again.

Four Spanish classes and the fact that Mr. Armstrong was working doubletime with all his classes led the school board to hire a new teacher, Miss Diane Werne.

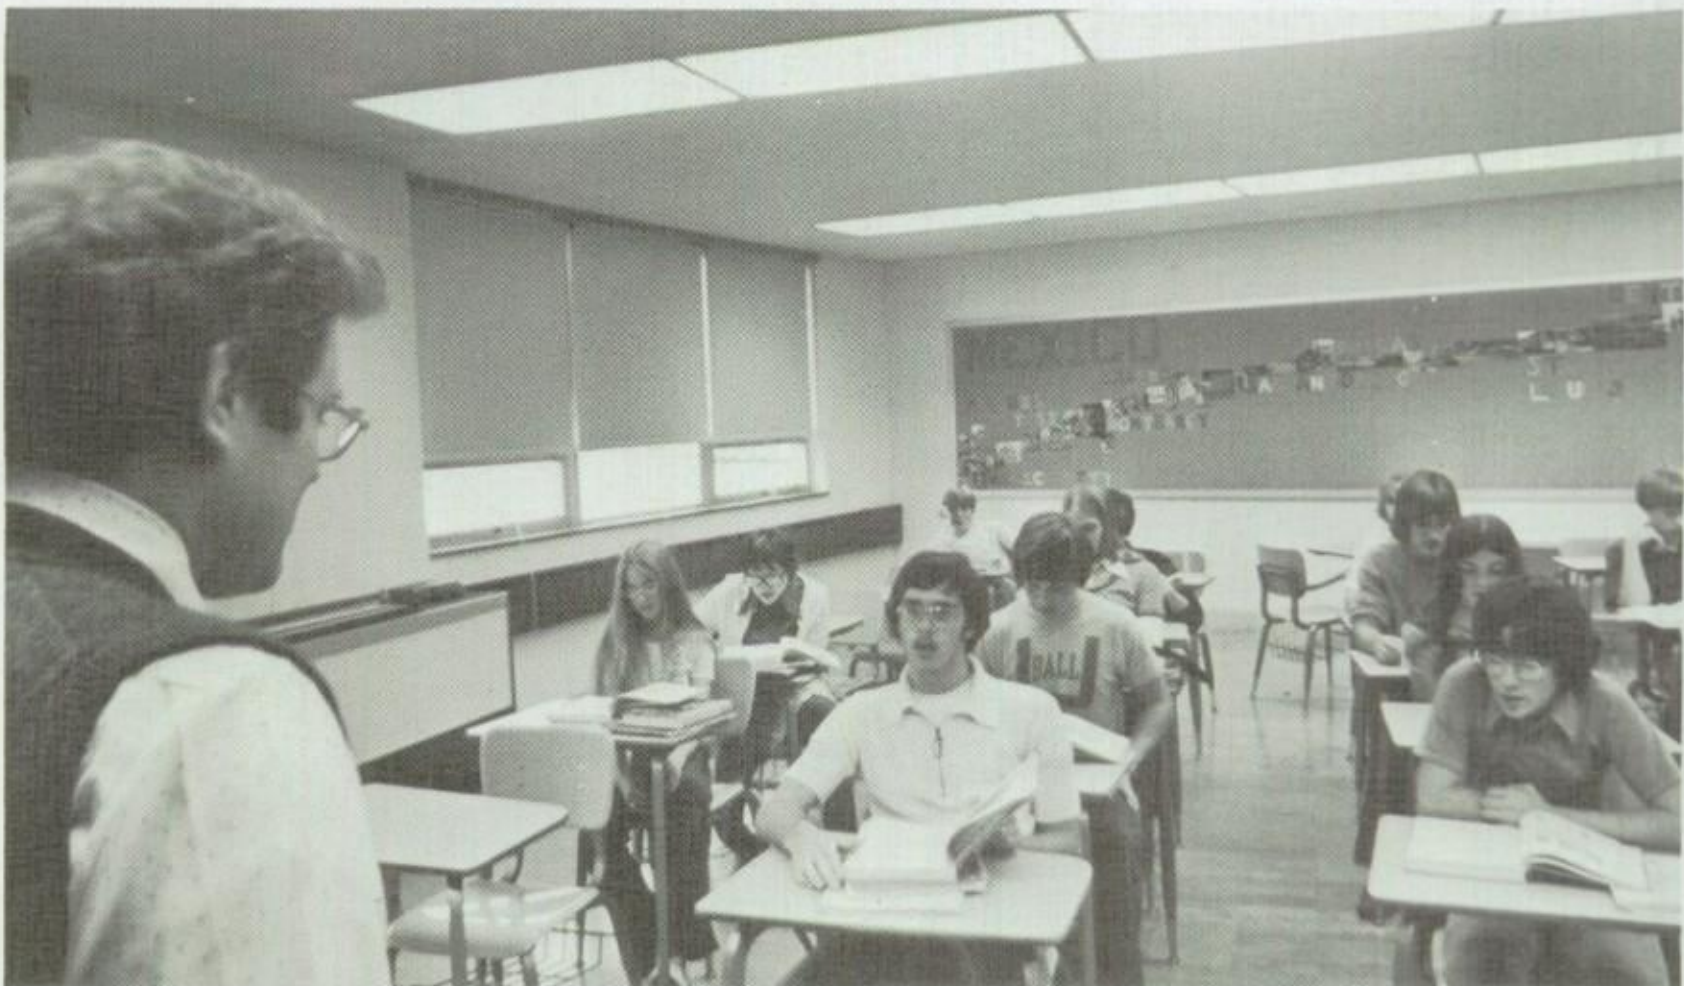

Said Miss Werne, "I really enjoy teaching here. The language department is the best of all the schools in which I've taught. The kids are great, too."

Highlighting the academic year, 20 students from all the Spanish classes traveled to Mexico during the spring vacation. While there, they visited historic pyramids, villages, shops, museums, observed cultures at work and experienced the folklore ballets and bullfights. The remainder of their stay was free to do as they wished.

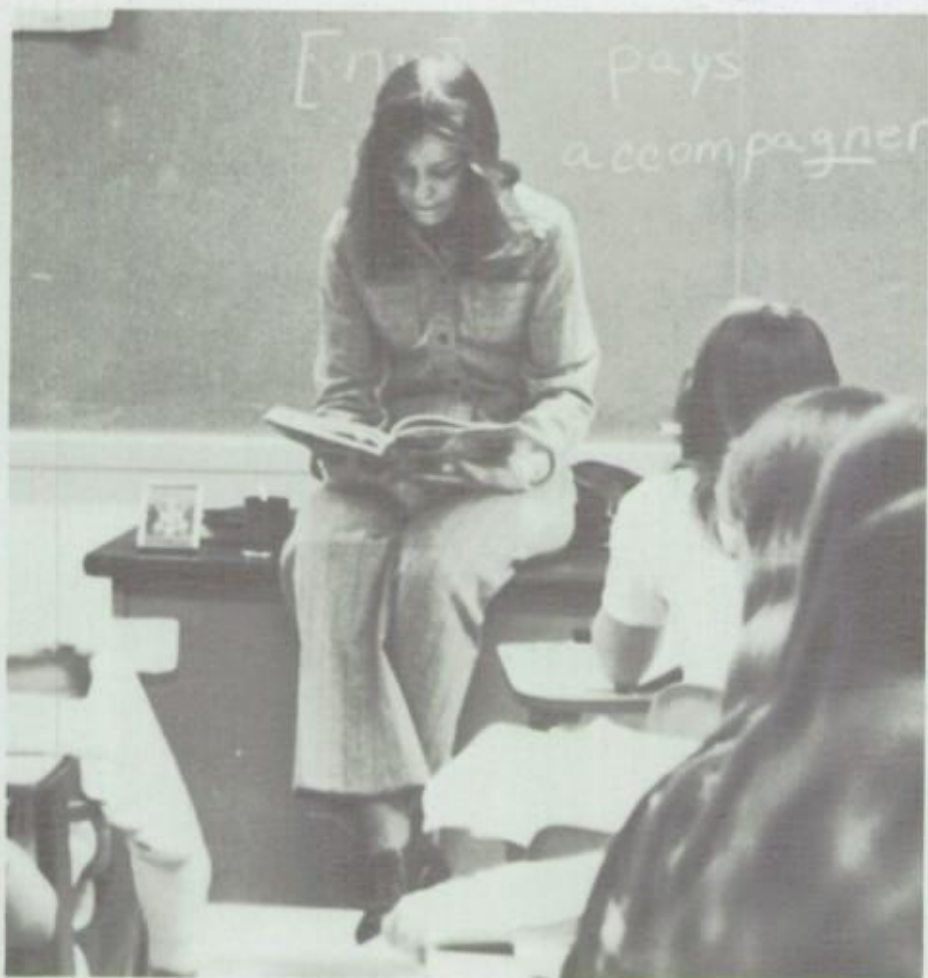

Students found the change in customs and surroundings pleasant and, after being warned of the water, there were no serious illnesses. Said sophomore Dennis Dolehanty, "The trip was just terrific, like living a dream. What a blast!"

Spanish students await a second helping of hugos, a native Mexican fruit drink.

"Now repeat after me. Hola, Tomas! Estas ocupado en este momento?" says Mr. Armstrong to second year students in Spanish II during a dialogue.

Miss Fields helps her class pronounce their new French dialogue.

Rookie Hoosier Guides French

A new teacher graced the French classes this year as students found themselves being taught by rookie teacher Miss Pam Fields.

This was Miss Fields' first teaching job since being graduated from I.U. last year. Said Miss Fields, "I really enjoy teaching here, the students, the faculty, they're all great."

French students found themselves on the move a lot. In November they attended an International Day Program in Indianapolis where they viewed Baston Repertory Theatre perform "The Little Prince."

Along with concentrating on the language and conjugating the verbs, they also dabbled in French cuisine and studied different cultures.

Debby Richardson stares in disbelief as Mike Warren answers in French I.

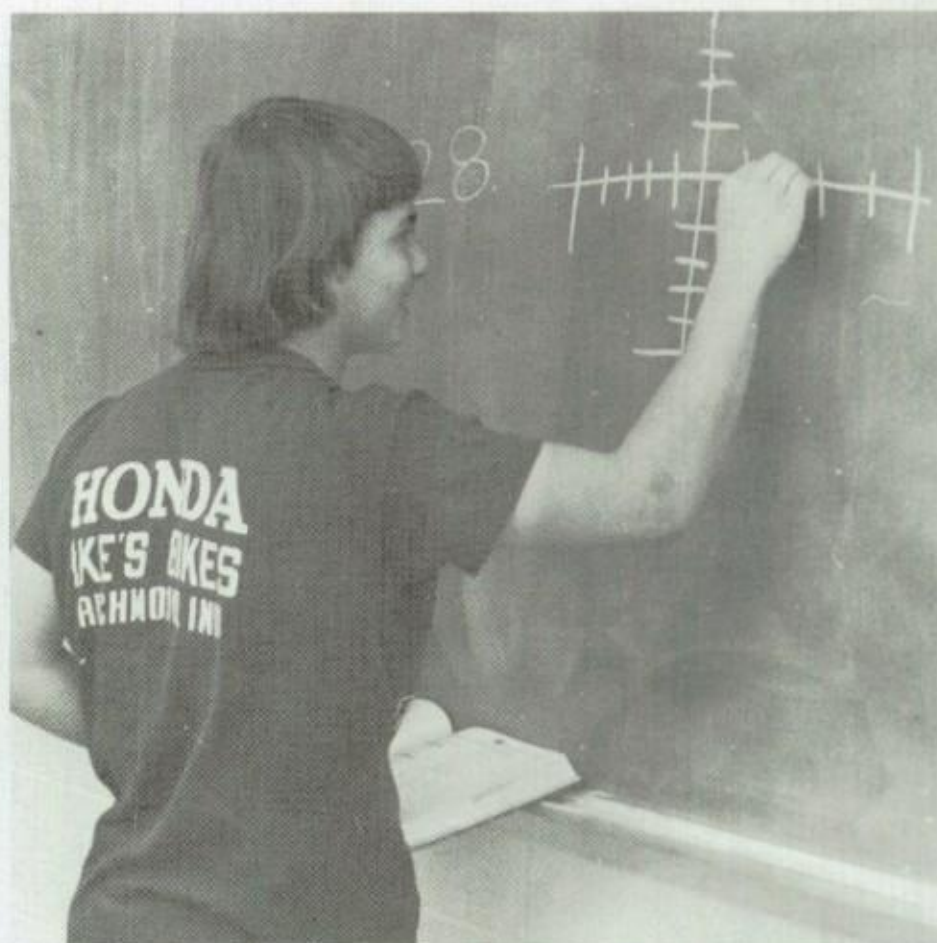

Having fun in French II are Barry McKee, Rodney Moyer and Mitchell Kidd.

New Math Books Well Received

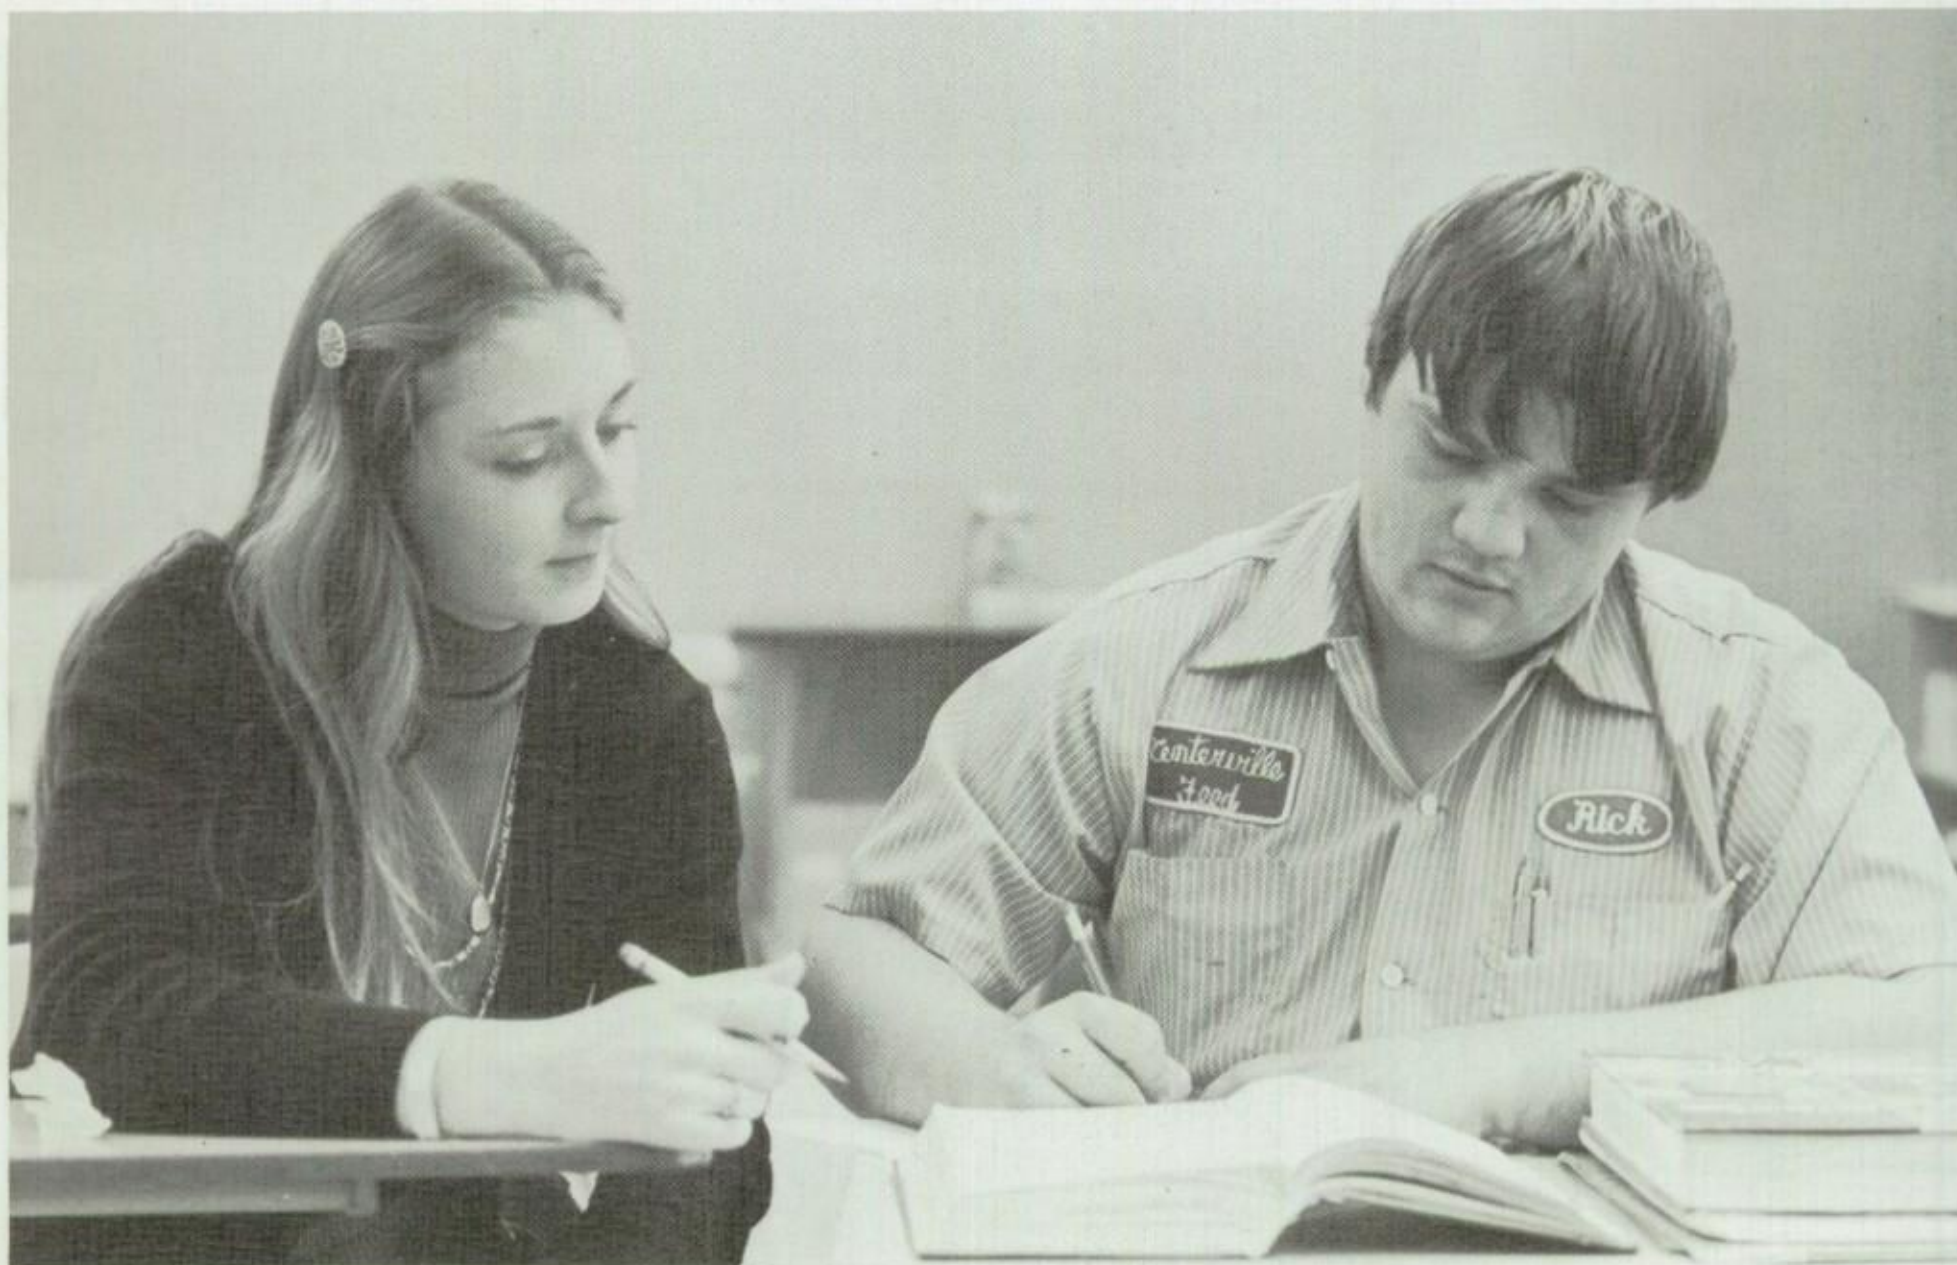

The math department received new books after using the old ones five years. Indicating they liked the new books, the math teachers said, "The teachers' editions are more concise, the geometry books are not so rigorous, but the new algebra books are more difficult to teach from."

Books weren't the only new addition to the math department as a new staff member, Miss Werne, was added. After teaching two years in Indianapolis, she found she liked the program better here at Centerville. Along with her teaching, Miss Werne helped a large group of students prepare for a nationwide math contest held in March for sophomores, juniors and seniors.

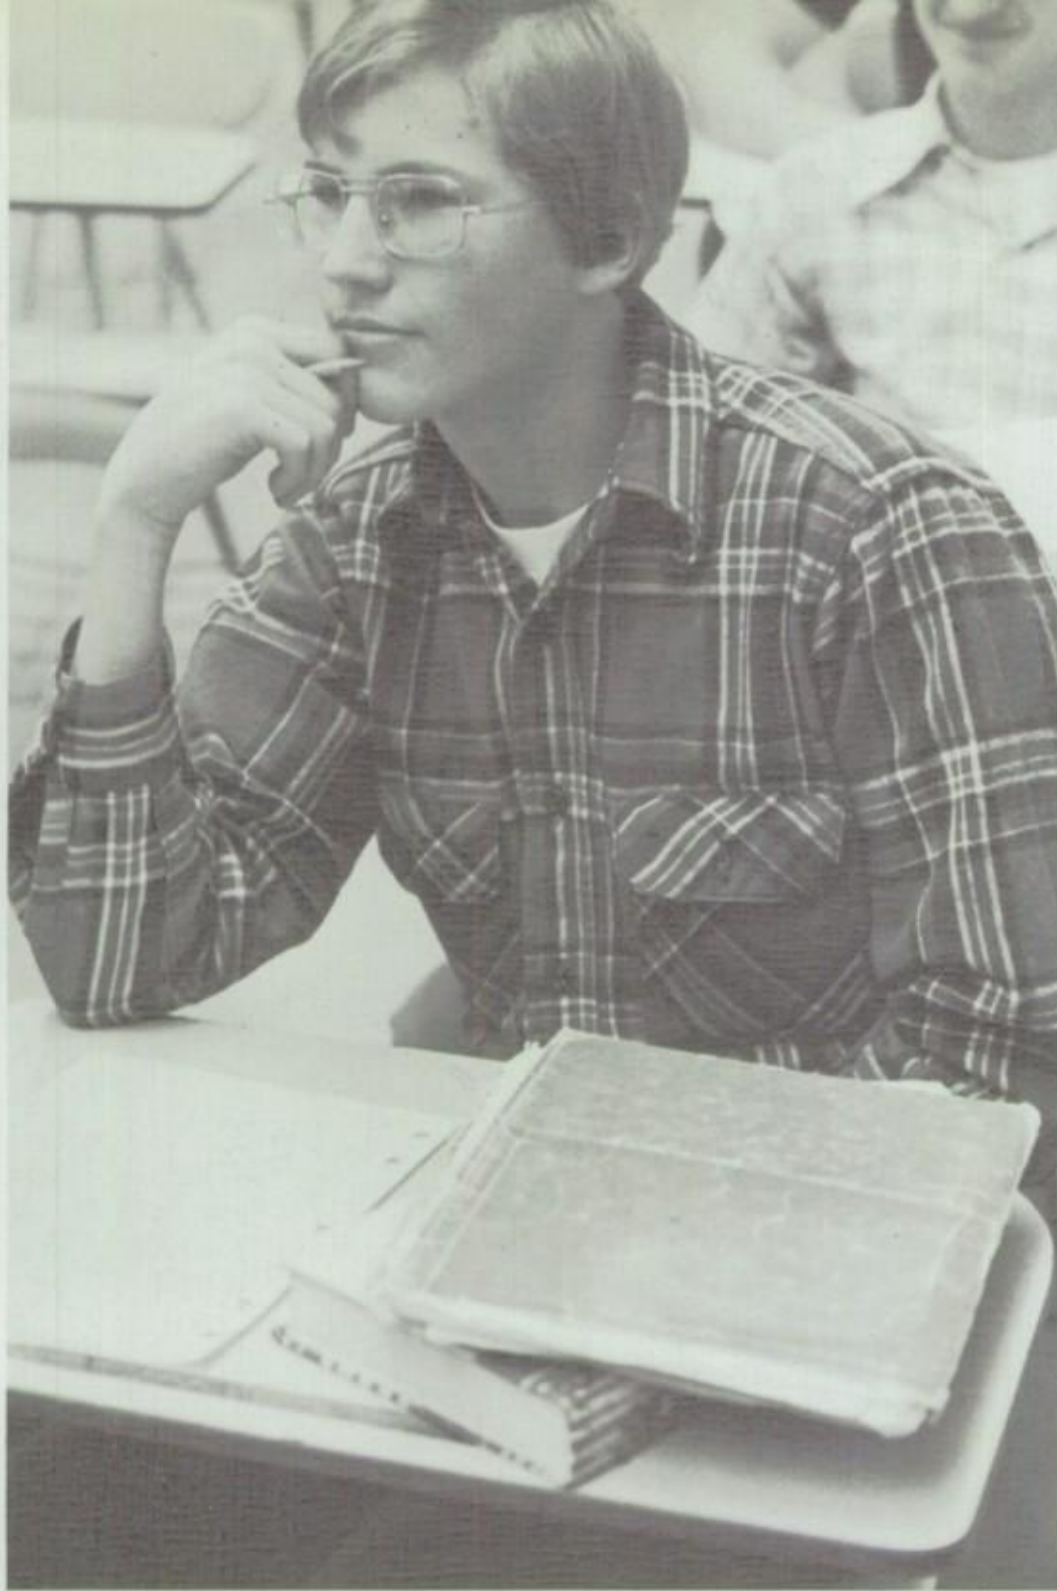

Numerous sophomores did double time on their math classes as they took both geometry and Algebra II in one year in order to get five years of math in high school.

Mrs. Sally Lewis assists freshman Rick Oldham with his mathematics assignments during individual resources, a class where students concentrate on their weakest subject.

Mark Wampole discovers that Algebra II isn't as hard as it appears to be.

Fourth period Algebra I students apply concentration to factoring polynomials and other math equations.

This marked the first year for the Independent Study Program in biology. Planning this program for over a year Mrs. Cope said, "I think the idea is good." The purpose of the new program is to allow students to work at their own pace.

Everyone received a lab book which included the lesson, inquiries, and topics for discussions over current problems for each unit. Each student worked at his own pace using tapes and books provided. Along with its great possibilities, like any new idea, it also had its problems. Some of these were the changes to working on one's own and making time for 90 individual tests. Mrs. Cope believes the program will get better each year.

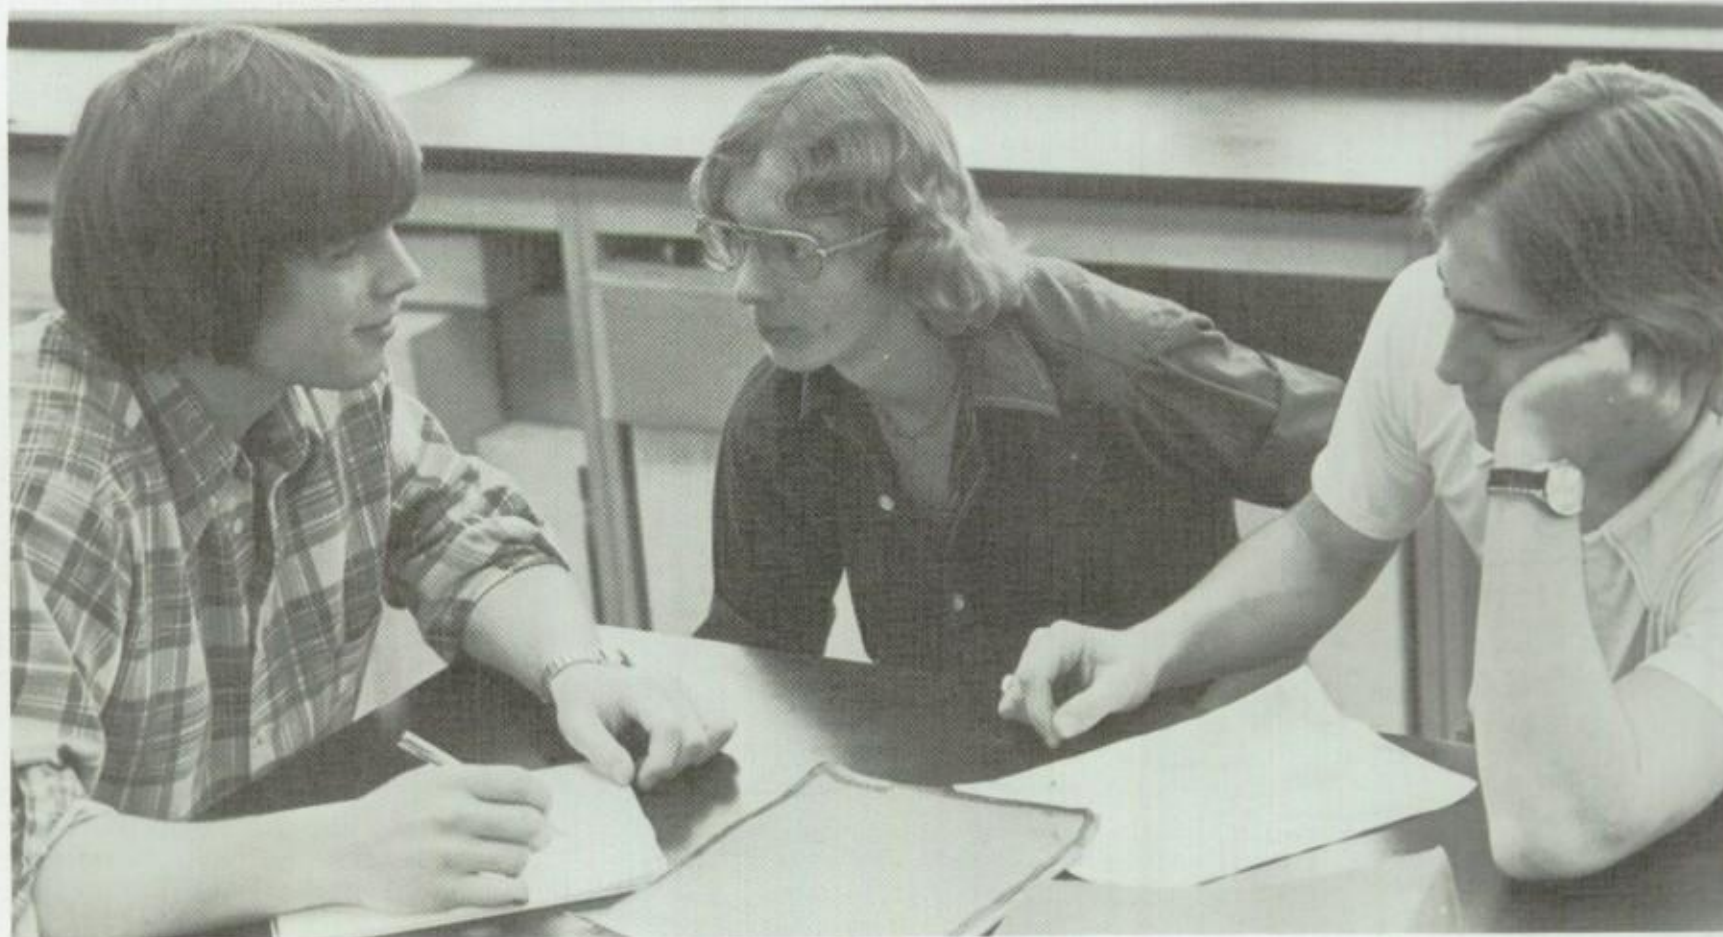

Each science students were kept busy with labs, star gazing at the football stadium, identifying rocks and studying stream action at the outdoor land site. Chemistry people made peppermint candy for their first time.

For the sixth year advanced biology students studied the ecology of their research area correlating it with the weather. They also mapped out the new land purchased by the school, some of which will be turned into a nature awareness and outdoor environment study program. This can be used by all science classes.

In advanced biology, Jill Markley observes protozoan succession culture.

Biology Begins New Program

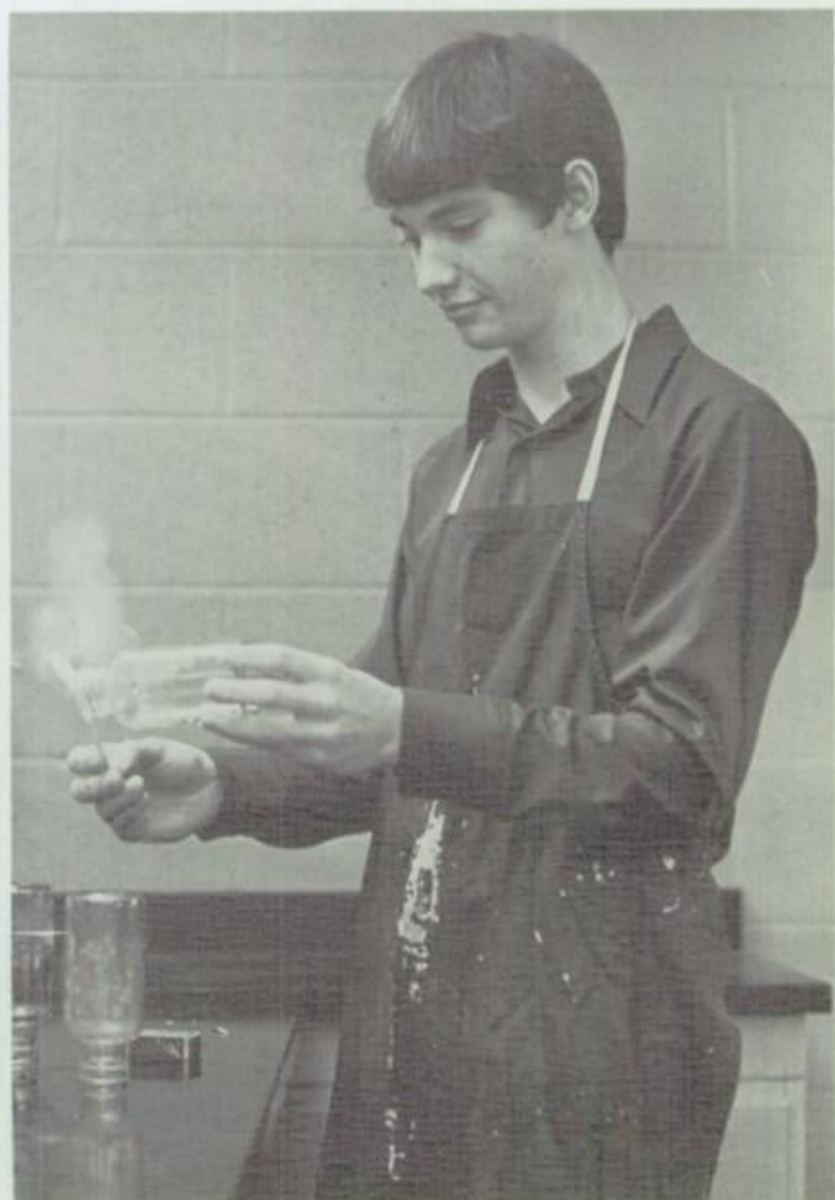

Randy Barnett listens to Mark Harris tell of his latest environmental experiments with all his foxy ladies as Barry Brown appears totally bored in environmental issues.

Dan Cook, Amy Hite, Brian Alexander and Tim Eadler, demonstrate folding and faulting of the earth's surface during Mrs. Matlack's 4th period earth science class.

Karen Robbins takes notes as she listens to a tape in the new study program for biology.

Ken Yerkes, Our Governor Elect

Ken Yerkes was elected governor of Model Legislature, a National Award Winning program. Ken is the first Centerville student to be named to this post. All Model Legislature bills were written by the students with several interesting bills being passed. The Jaycee-sponsored program was coordinated by Mr. Phil Stevenson.

In European and Asian Studies classes, there were debates on who had been the most outstanding world leader. Supreme Court simulations were used in some Government classes to help students better understand how our government works. In geography classes students received a good basic background from their textbooks, then read, discussed and were tested on THE SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON. From this point, they divided up into groups and using their knowledge and references they had received prior, they set up their own society with the idea in mind that they were the only ones left in the world.

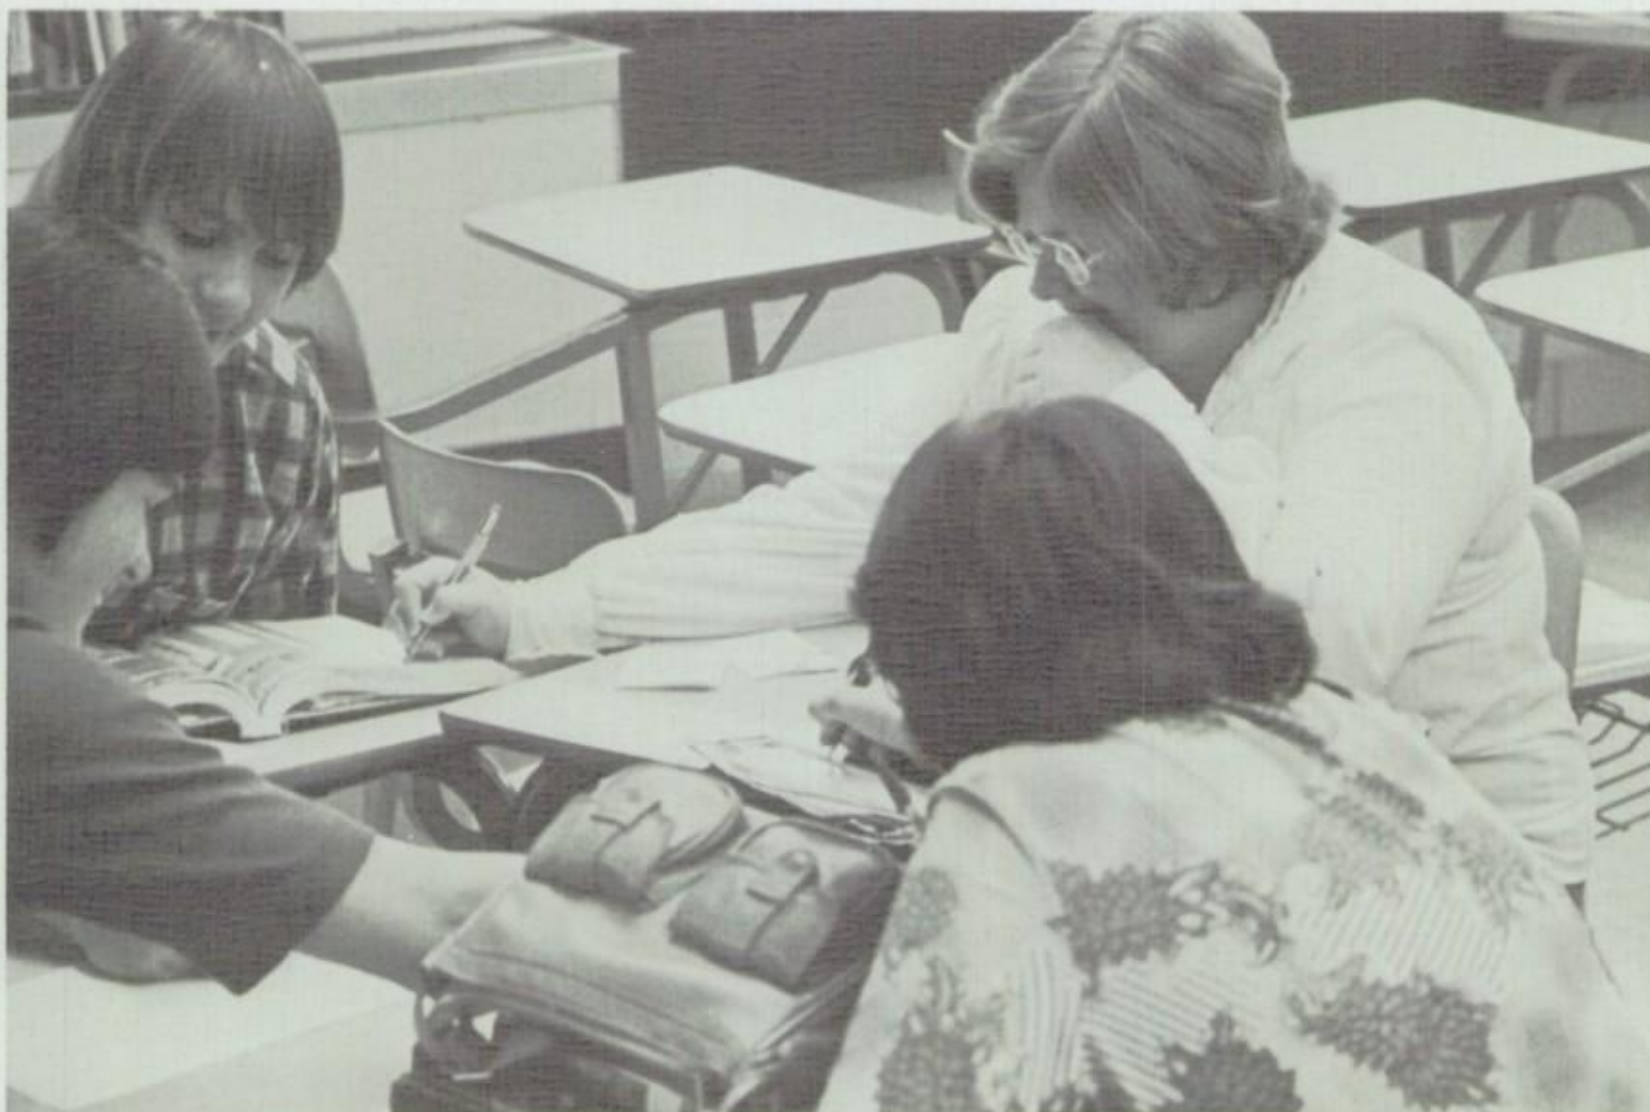

Holding Model Legislature leadership are Jim Lamar, House Minority Leader; C. J. Ringwall, Speaker of the House; Ken Yerkes, Governor; Jeff Bridgford, Senate Assistant Majority Leader; and Todd Lewis, Senate Minority Whip.

Marcia Ladd makes herself at home by relaxing with a drink during child behavior in psychology class while watching children's actions and reactions.

David Skaggs, Mr. Phil Stevenson and George Shaw pose as Heinrich Himmler, Adolf Hitler and Herman Goering in a simulation of Hitler's ideas.

Typing II student, Karen Whittaker, works as receptionist.

Sonia Brock codes her lesson from plain alphabet into short-hand's dots and dashes.

Business Dept. Stages Trials

Business was a popular department as about 83 per cent of the students were enrolled in business courses. Classes with the largest enrollments were Typing I and Basic Business.

New in Typing II and some Typing I classes was an individualized plan that enabled students to work at their own pace. The program was a success.

New staff member, Mr. Gary Baker, held armed robbery and drug trials in his classroom, hoping to give his students a better understanding of an actual court case. Speakers were brought in from different areas to speak on business-related problems.

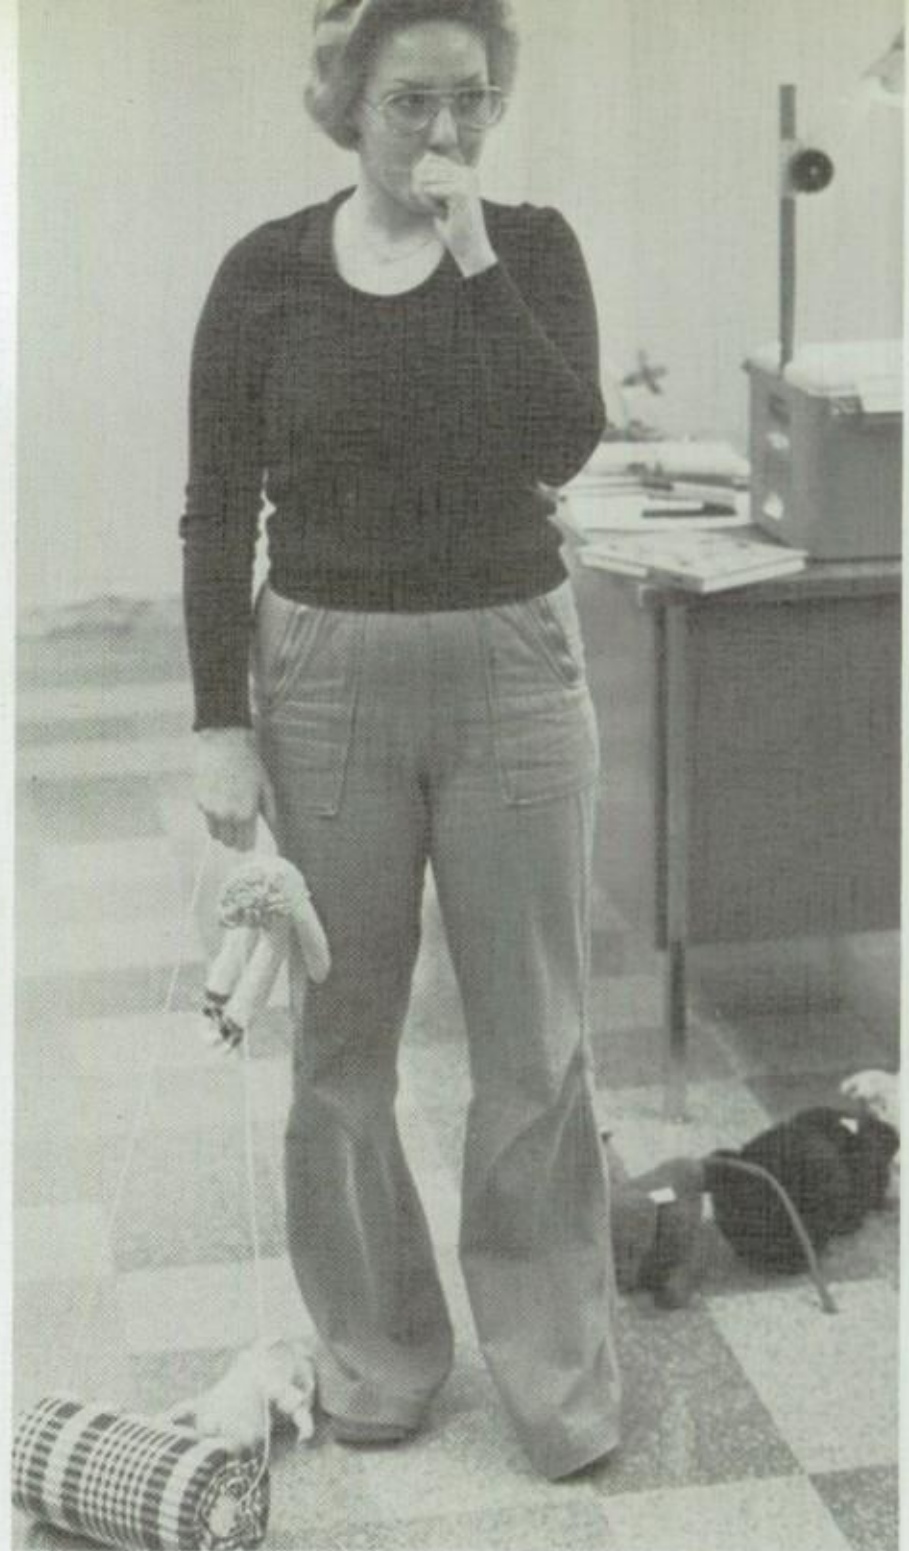

Another busy class was office procedures. It traveled to different businesses to see how their offices function. They were able to experience what they talked about in class. Junior accounting and basic business classes got some on-the-job training with practice sets in class. Shorthand classes used the language lab to work on speed.

Glancing at her assignment, junior Tami Pope works at her own pace in the new individualized study program designed for Typing II classes.

"See that stuff rise? It's alive!" says Scott Miller to Jeff Beach in singles living.

"Won't anyone play with me?", asks Anita Thomas in child development class.

Surprise! Billie Reimer makes her debut as "Billie-in-the-box" in child development.

Mrs. Gaddis assists Tom Allen as Matt Duning looks on in singles living.

Cindy Thompson applies the finishing touches to her outfit in Clothing I class.

Men's Lib Hits Home Economics

Enjoyed by both girls and guys home ec. classes were much the same as last year. Mrs. Gaddis, a new teacher, shared many new ideas with her classes.

Home Ec. I students learned the basics on consumerism and did a project on improving themselves. Trying their hands at sewing and cooking, the guys in singles living learned how to be the perfect bachelor. The Clothing I classes made notebooks illustrating various sewing techniques and made several garments.

Child development girls held a well-planned Christmas party for young children. Foods I classes decorated beautiful cakes for Valentines Day. Having speakers in and taking field trips to an Elder Beerman Style show helped family relations students plan a terrific wedding. Housing classes used their imagination drawing up the home of their dreams.

The Bicentennial year influenced the advanced clothing classes to take up quilt making. Family management girls continued to learn how to "stretch" the dollar to fit their budget while advanced foods girls cooked and dressed foreign style for a fun dinner.

Seniors Lori Williamson, Cynthia Hollis and Bea Lewellyn gaze at the delicacy they have created in advanced foods.

Record Rackers

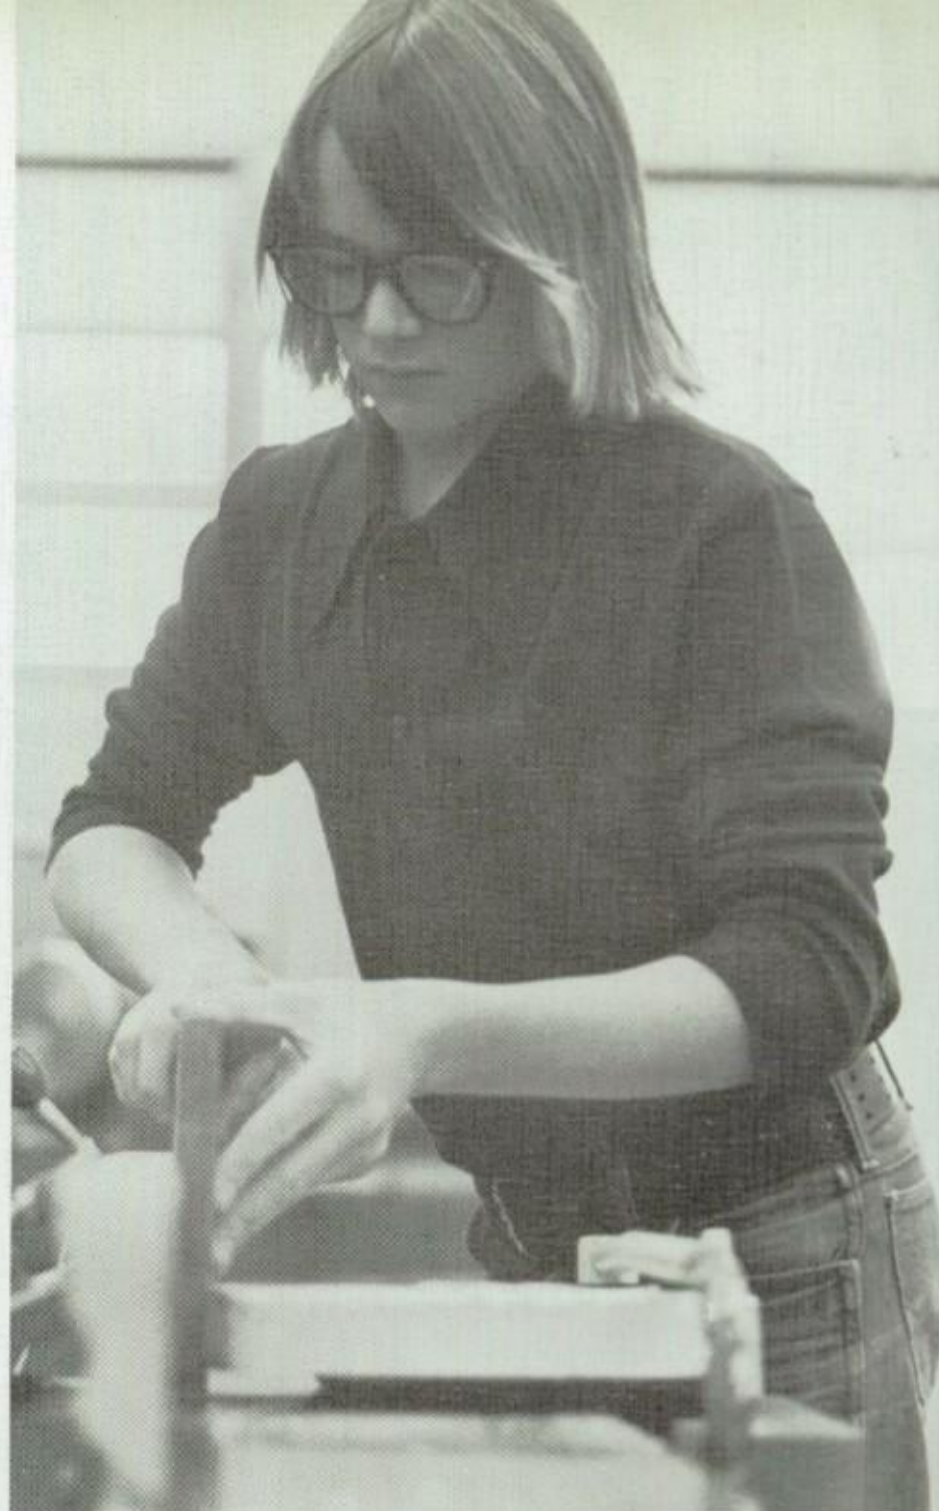

Rack Up Sales

Record Rackers Inc., a name given to the advanced woods class, was actually a group formed to mass produce a rack to hold records, books and other items under the supervision of Mr. Richard Lee and student teacher Mr. Don Turner. The project, Record Rackers, was voted on by the majority of the students who then decided on what part of the Record Rackers they would like to mass produce.

Questionnaires were handed out to teachers and students for an estimate of how many racks to make. This plus door-to-door selling made the racks a successful project.

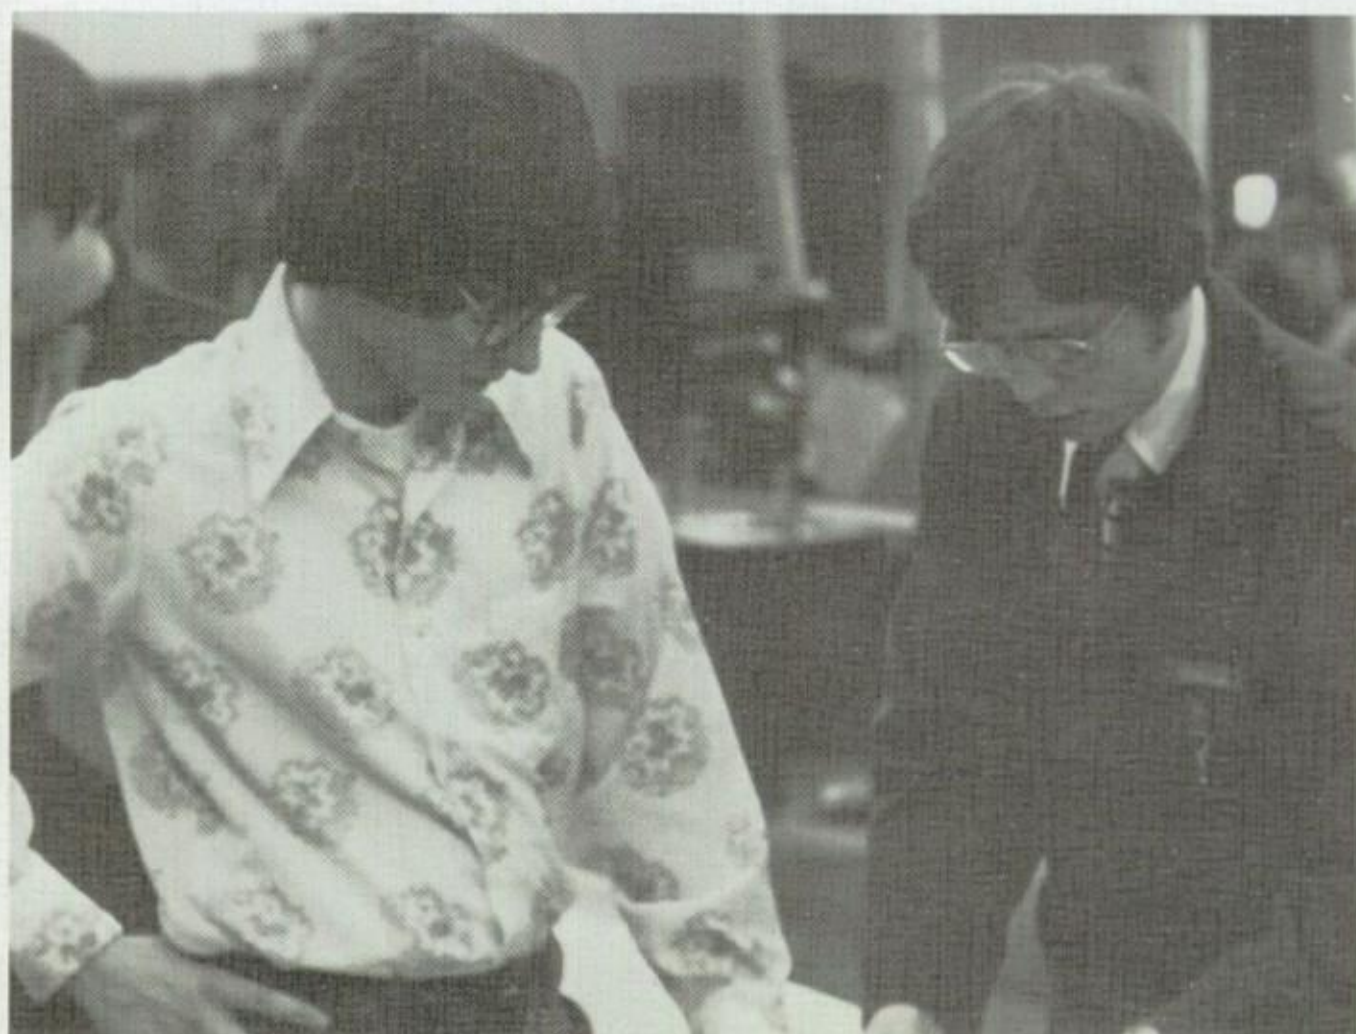

In auto mechanics, students not only learn the basics of fixing a car, but also how to tear down and rebuild an engine. The students got practice tuning up students and teachers' cars for a small fee. "The money we made we used for new equipment," said Mr. Lee.

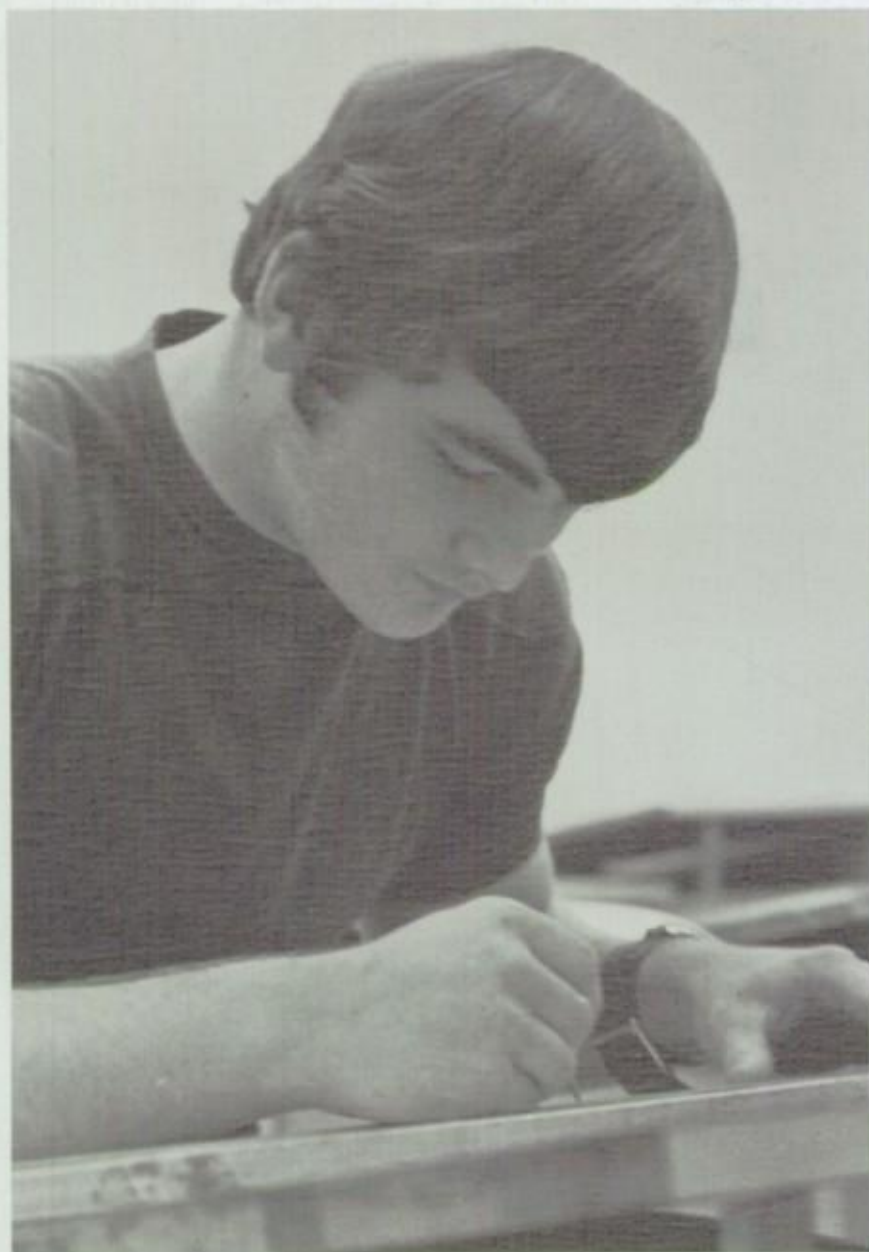

In Drafting III students design houses complete with plumbing and electricity. When finished, students had 15 different drawings of thier house. Mr. Hopkins, teacher of Drafting III and advanced machines, feels that these classes are "skill building" as well as educational.

Jim Klemann, sophomore, squares a board on a joiner while in advanced woods.

Wayne Karn, sophomore, carefully draws his plans for a project while in drafting class.

Eric Reed demonstrates his wood working talent as he works with the lathe in woods.

Mr. Lee helps Roger Redmond, Tom Allen and Dale Henwood "remove a head."

Tornado Blasts Ag. Greenhouse

March 12 had a damaging effect on the greenhouse used for horticulture classes. Sixty-one pieces of glass were broken out and more than 100 plants were either damaged or destroyed. The greenhouse suffered some structural damage and several pieces of equipment were either lost or damaged.

Ag. students spent the next week repairing the greenhouse and getting it back in working order. Half of it was boarded up for use and plastic was used in heavily-damaged areas.

Students had to replant all cabbage and tomato plants but still were able to have their spring sale of garden plants and flowers.

Animal science classes took part in six contests bringing home three first places. These contests are used to supplement agriculture classes and are a part of the F.F.A.

Vicky Johnson and Rita Edwards carefully repot their plants in Horticulture I.

Still standing after the terrific blow it received, the greenhouse was ready for use again after a week of hard work by students who volunteered to help.

Daryl Sartain knocks on wood as he checks his plants, hoping they've grown.

Kirk Behymer helps Robbie Ravencraft sort out plants and flowers for the spring sale.

Steve Van Camp Wins Art Award

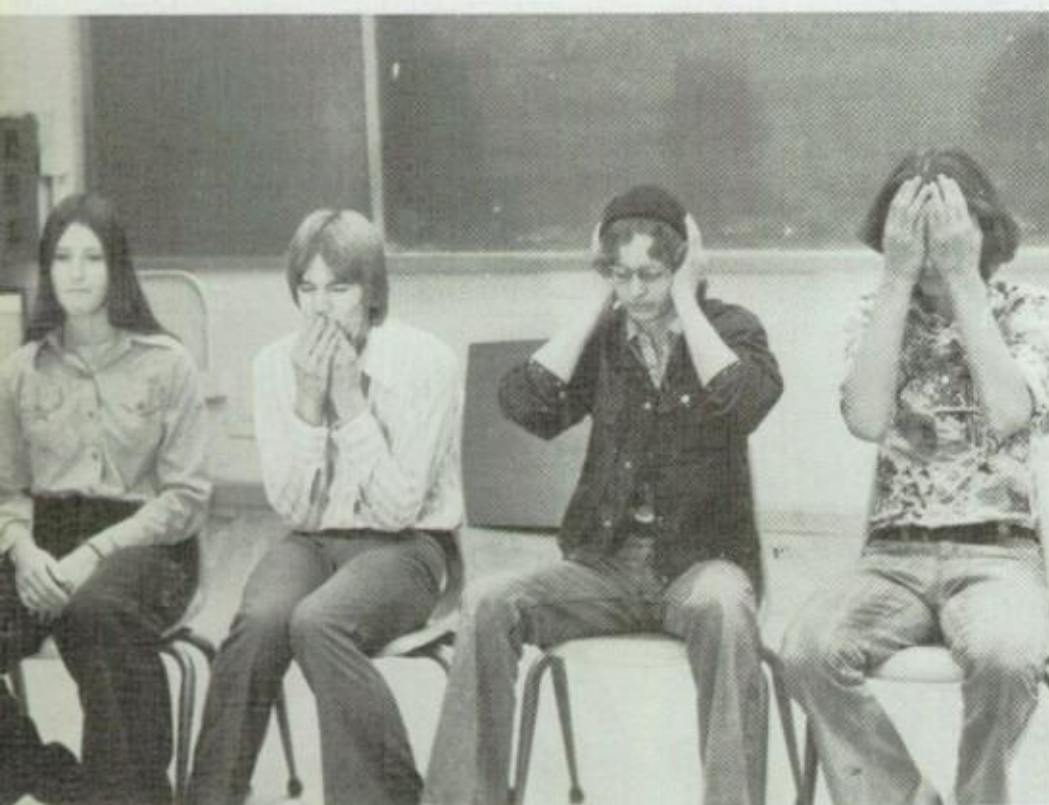

Senior Steve Van Camp won the Most Outstanding Art Student Award this year. The recipient of this honor was decided by Mr. Harrison and Miss Drinkut. To be eligible for the award, the student had to have a high degree of self-motivation and be hard-working.

Of 16 regular semester classes, art history was the most populated with more than 100 students enrolled. Back from last year, special problems gave students a chance to fit unoffered classes into schedules.

Odds-n-Ends' students were introduced to video-taping and tableaus and collected souvenirs on field trips while print-making students experienced mass production of short projects.

Once again art classes did a fine job of sponsoring Fine Arts Week with student work being displayed in the library and entertainment provided during the boring lunch periods.

Mr. Harrison said, "This school has a very nice program."

See no evil, Tim Claus; hear no evil, Randy Barnett; speak no evil, Charlie Robinson; and have no fun, Teresa Collins in Odds-n-Ends.

Senior Steve Van Camp, most outstanding art student, shows a steady hand is important as he applies finishing touches to his Spanish Indian pottery in ceramics.

Joe Estes keeps busy knitting while in third period special problems.

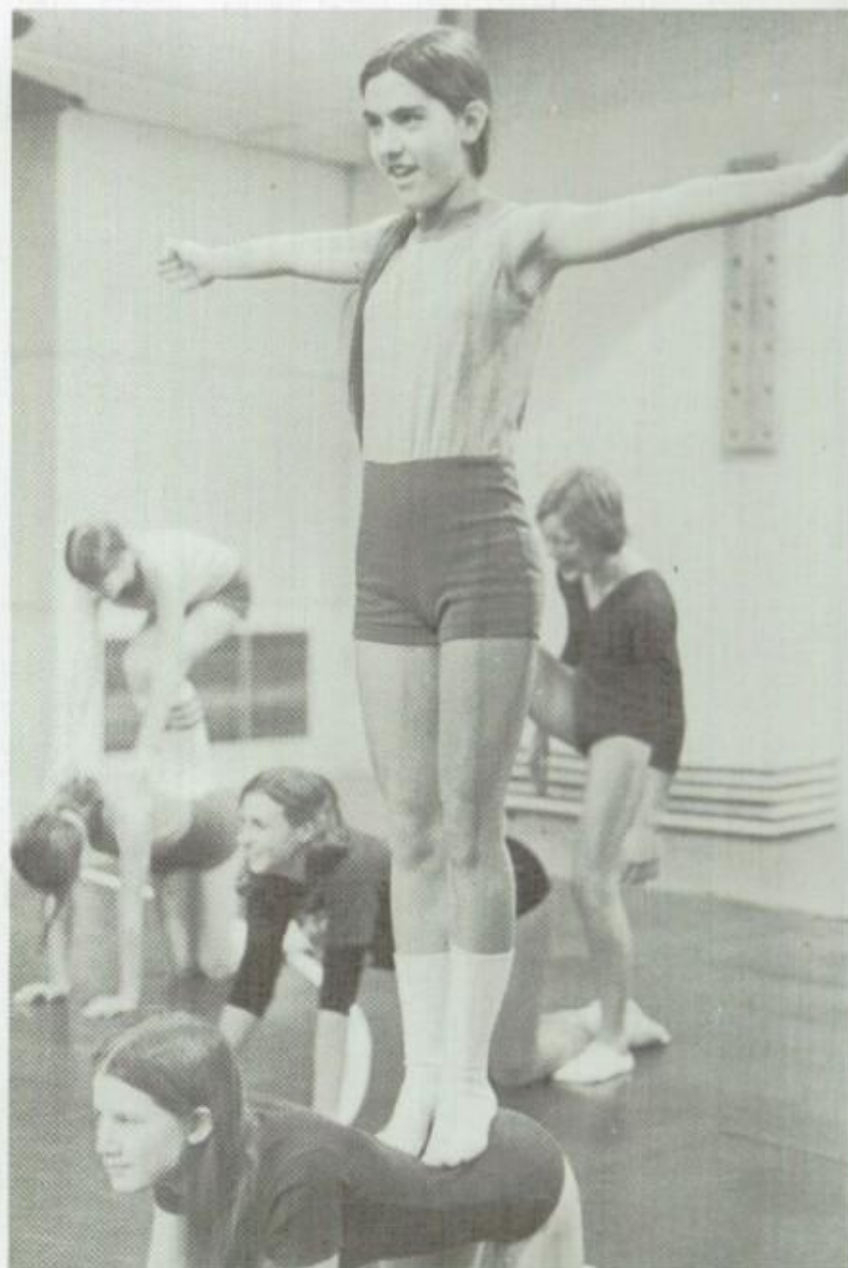

Junior Tim Jacobs "strikes" again as he "spares" no pin in Mr. Harrison's odds-n-ends class.

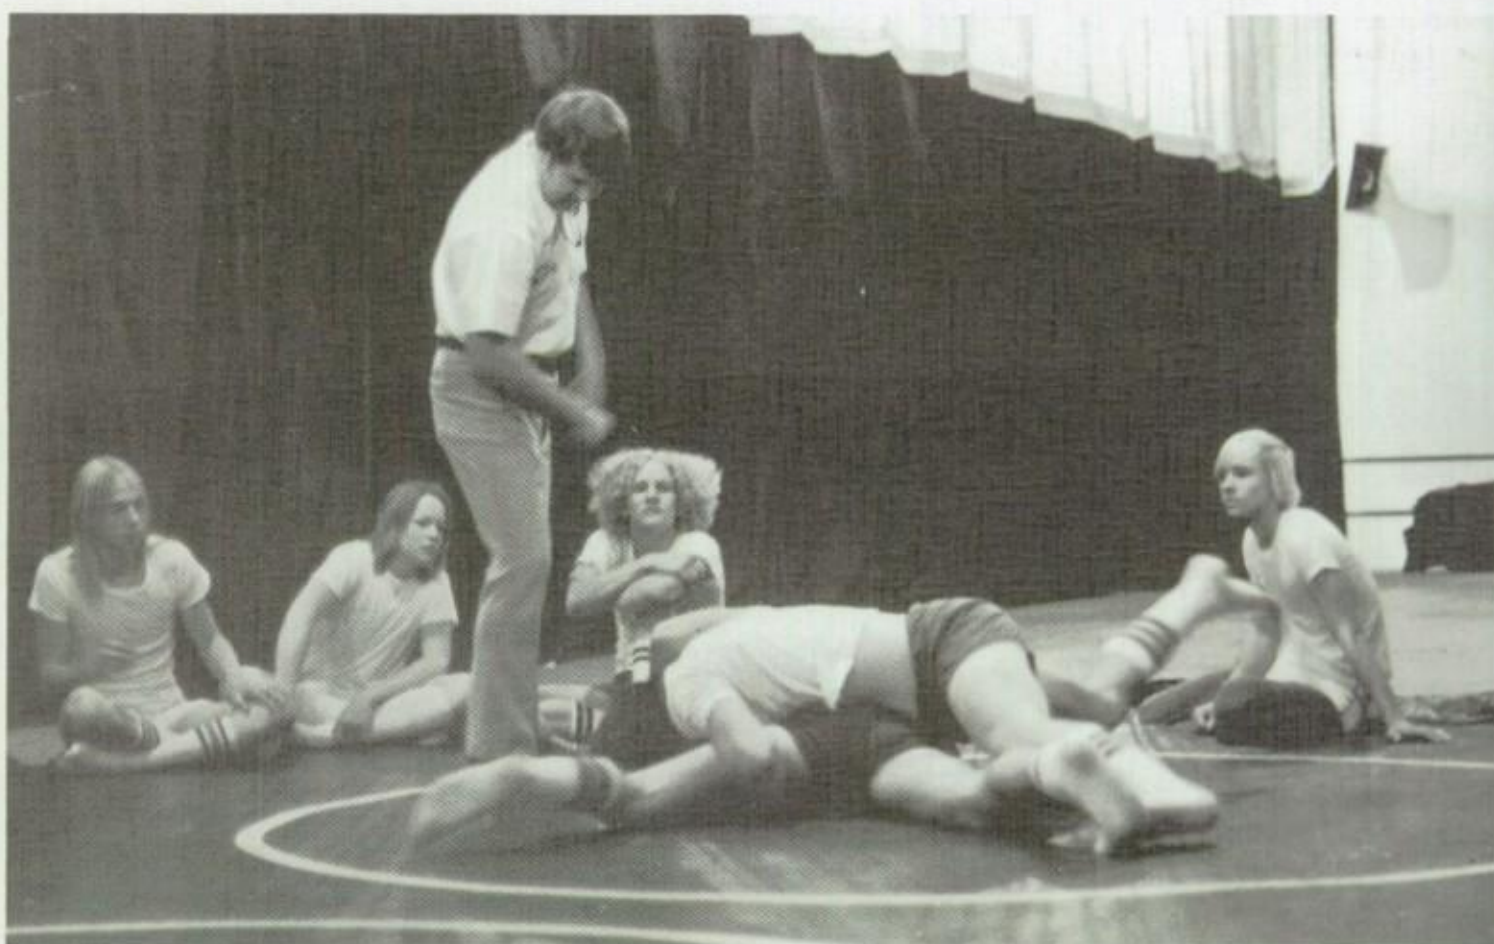

Techniques and Rules Stressed

Physical education provided a break in the monotony of going to and sitting through classes for six hours straight, five days a week. Boys in Phys. Ed. I took part in various team and individual sports like flag football, ping-pong, and handball while girls excelled in folk-dancing, gymnastics and tennis. Students did more than play the sports as special techniques and various rules were applied.

Girls and boys in the advanced phys. ed. classes concentrated on further developing these sports and learning carry-over sports like golf and bowling and learning techniques and skills that would last them the rest of their life.

Janet King and Beverly Stamps do a feat that requires balance and a strong back.

Boys in sixth period advanced phys. ed. watch to see who pins whom as they wait their turn while Mr. Richardson referees.

Gretchen Stuck shoots the ball as girls in advanced P.E. indulge in a game of basketball.

After capturing first place in the Canal Days Parade Contest held at Cambridge City, the band continued to display its award winning style by entertaining football fans during halftimes, although the first three shows were rained out.

The homecoming performance was spectacular, and many felt it was the best performance the band has given. Not to go unmentioned was a special Halloween halftime program that was interesting and exciting for some as elementary band students were allowed to dress up and parade with the high school band.

In co-operation with the drama club, several band members participated in the performance of "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" in the fall by providing background music.

Later "in the spring" Karen Robbins won a first place and a chance to go to the state contest in the solo and ensemble contest while other participants placed very high.

To help celebrate America's 200th birthday a Bicentennial concert was given in May with the band playing the "1812 Overture."

Late May saw eight senior band members march away to the sound of "Pomp and Circumstance" as 80 new members came on.

Marching Band Wins Contest

Senior Chris Burris shows he has what it takes to become an outstanding bandsman.

Displaying the first place trophy are, front; Marsha Powell, centurion leader; Jack Cox, drum major; Vicki Study, centurion captain; Tim Love, band director. In back, Jim Lamar, treasurer; Gary Bachelor, co-president; Karen Robbins, secretary; Chris Burris, co-president, and Paul Phenis, vice president.

Beth Eliason, Teresa VanCamp, Jo Horn, Vicky Land and Tami Brown practice hard.

Choir Performs Schubert Mass

Attempting to do harder arrangements this year than in previous years, the choir performed "Kyrie" from the Schubert Mass for the winter concert. Earlier in November some members participated in the Drama Club production of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," by providing background music while some members acted in the musical.

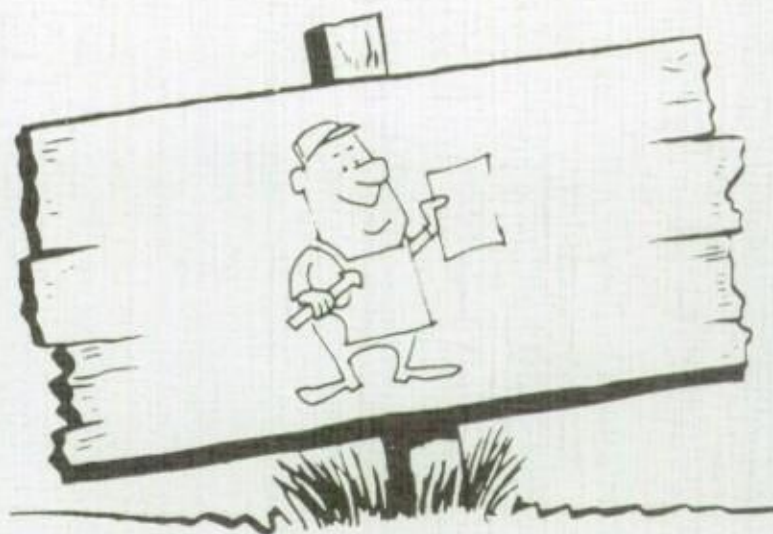

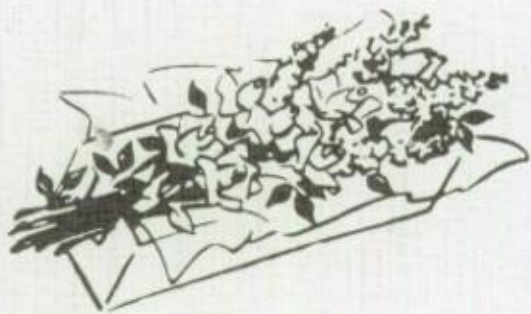

The school was well represented in the annual solo and ensemble contest as sophomore Scott Jones and freshman Eddie Christian both took first place in their divisions while other participants placed high. The Eastern Indiana District Choral Festival in March allowed the choir to show its talent again as it was part of an 800-voice choir made up of choir students from all over eastern Indiana.

Performing at various concerts and pep sessions throughout the year, a barbershop quartet brought back the memories of handlebar mustaches, bicycles built for two, and the "Gay Nineties," composed of Rick Warfield, Darryl Ballinger, Scott Jones and Eddie Christian.

In keeping with the Bicentennial year, the choir gave an outstanding performance at the Bicentennial Concert in May. Later in the month, the choir sang in honor of the graduating class. Mr. Armstrong commented, "They're a great bunch of kids. They have a lot of potential."

CLASS OF ★ 76

Breaking the pathway for underclassmen to follow were the 154 members of the Bicentennial Class. Even though it sometimes appeared the seniors acted rowdy and wild and did all sorts of crazy things, the same group of people got down to business occasionally and accomplished many feats. Being named governor of Model Legislature, Ken Yerkes proved how serious one in the class could be. Ken was not alone, however, as others cracked the books to earn college scholarships while even more dedicated much time and effort to school leadership roles and athletic prowess.

Now alumni, the Class of '76 reflect on past experiences which have become fond memories. Many realize the joys, friendships and hardships they faced have made them what they are today. As they look to tomorrow, some have definite goals while others still wonder.

Spirit of ★ 76 Moves On!

Seniors realized when their last year of school started that they were going to be busy and learn how to make decisions.

Starting the decision making was the ordering of Senior Keys in September. Students had many different chains and a new Bicentennial key offered to them as well as the regular key.

Next in line was to decide whether to go on the senior trip. Being the Bicentennial Year, a Bicentennial Trip was offered to Seniors but they chose to keep the original Eastern Express Trip which takes them to New York and Washington, D.C.

On November 25, Graduation Announcements were ordered. Breaking away from the tradition and going along with the Bicentennial Year, the 76'ers chose red, white and blue announcements with old English style lettering.

Forty-one Seniors decided to close out their school career Jan 16 with 16 of them graduating on that day. The rest marched to Pomp and Circumstance on May 27.

ROOKIES

Rookies, those underclassmen who walked in the seniors' shadows, were led throughout the year by their presidents, C.J. Ringwall, Mark Williamson and Glade Montgomery. (opposite pg.)

Although still Rookies the juniors proved themselves by proudly winning 3 out of 4 homecoming trophies, as well as traditionally selling magazines and hosting the Jr.-Sr. prom.

Getting to know the place again, sophomores stood up to let CHS know they were here. Class rings were a big thing, being exchanged during the soph's puppy love era.

For the freshmen the year seemed to go as fast as a sleepy turtle with, of course finally finding the right room, but at the wrong time. They too showed their leadership ability by raising money for a worthy cause.

When you're a junior at CHS, you are almost top dog on the Bulldog totem pole. With a couple of years' experience behind you, there's no secret how to exist in the day-to-day routine of school life or how to be a leader or how to be a winner. The Class of '77 found out how to do it all.

Four juniors, Janice Kolk, Todd Lewis, Louanne Schlotterbeck and Mariann Irvin led Student Administration Communications while many of the class pitched in to make a winner of their Homecoming float.

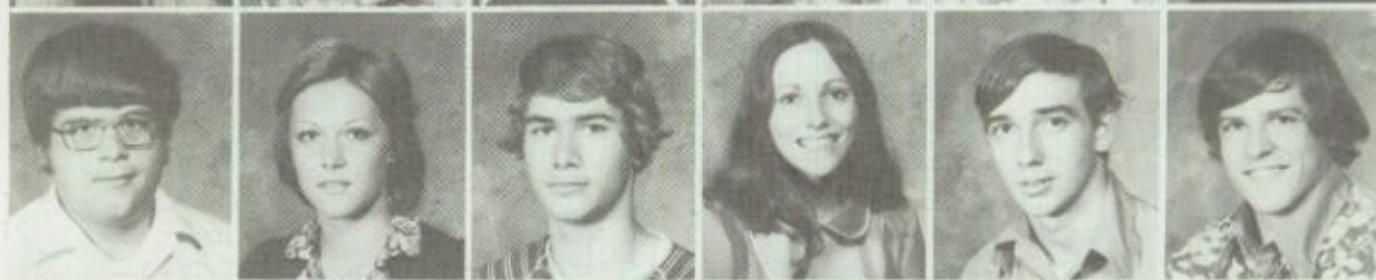

When you're a CHS junior, you also sell magazines to earn money for the prom and your senior year. With Steve Thompson leading the way, the class sold almost $5,000 worth of periodicals and boosted the treasury enough to throw a "super expensive" prom for the seniors.

When you're a junior here, you also participate in athletics, plays, clubs, publications, model legislature and 101 other activities that total up to a busy but for-the-most-part fun year you wouldn't trade for anything, not even Snoopy's breakfast dish. One must wonder what this class will do next year for an encore.

Back in Gear!

The class of '78 got it all together again this year, starting first with their float, followed by a wiener roast instead of the usual pizza party. "Hagerstown Massacre" was their bicentennial theme. The trophy for best workmanship was welcomed by the sophomores.

The sophomore executive council held a bake sale and a dance. A small portion of the profit was used for their sophomore picnic. The rest was saved to help them pay for their float next year.

Head sponsor Mr. Harrison said, "They're a close group and they work well together. I'm just there if they need me. It's up to them to get things done, which they do. Expect a lot to come from them."

Two Down Two to Go

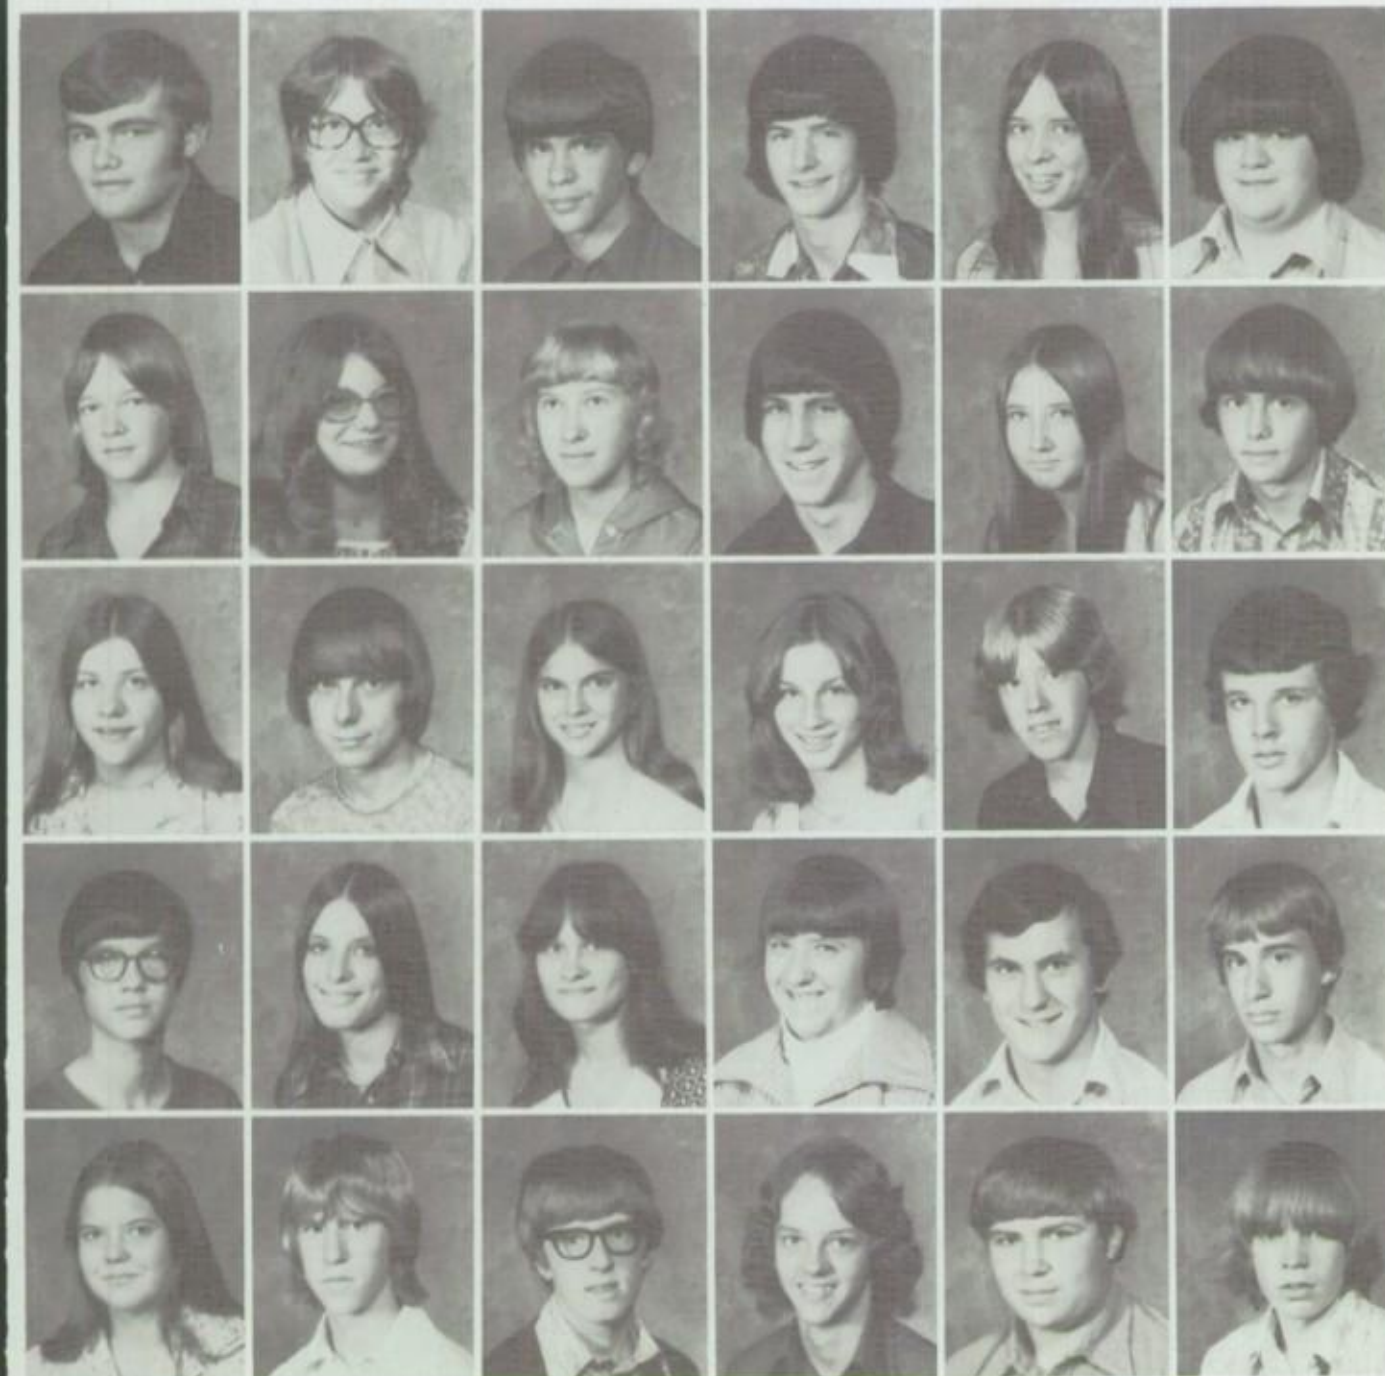

Quickly gaining the reputation of an active class, the sophomores contributed heavily to the school's extra-curricular life.

Seven 78ers made yearbook staff while numerous sophs helped booster both boy's and girl's teams.

Although a few tripped and fell and found school life a bit distasteful, the majority excelled in the classroom and socially and made the rest of the school realize the Class of 78 will help shape CHS history for the next two years.

Most will agree that their freshman year was quite an experience and it practically "flew by." The 79'ers were spirited and active in school affairs as proven by their attempt of float building. Although they didn't place, it was an experience they'll never forget. Working together as a class under the leadership of the Executive Council, they chose the theme "B-ring Out a Victory." They worked a total of 28 hours and celebrated by having a pizza party after the completion of their project. Once backward and shy, the freshmen "crawled out of their shells" and excelled in many activities. Both guys and gals expressed their abilities for future years here at CHS as seen in various sports as well as music and drama. Eddie Christian proved his individual skill by playing Linus in the fall musical, "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown," presented by the drama club.

New Surroundings Greet 'Frosh'

Faced with a new atmosphere, finding their way around and simply getting adjusted, the freshmen soon lost their "rookie" look and became part of the CHS family.

Teamwork became a byword as members of the class pitched in to build a float for the Homecoming parade.

Assets such as sport talent and leadership ability were expressed throughout the entire freshman class.

Making up a large part of the organization at CHS were the freshmen, ready and willing to partake in the work and the fun that followed.

Head sponsor Mr. Jacobs said, "Expect to be seeing some really great things come from the class of '79."

Still full of life as time "ticks" on at the Y-teen Satellite are freshmen Reisann May, Amy Burch, Cathy Egan and Beryl Lewis.

Frosh Supply Fresh Ideas for Projects

A dance, a bake sale, and a student directory were the freshmen's major projects this year. According to Mr. Jacobs, head freshman sponsor, the student directory was the first of its kind at CHS. It consisted of an alphabetized list of all students' names and the grade they were in. Addresses and phone numbers were optional.

Freshman cheerleaders were involved in many fund raising activities. Among them were the selling of mums at Homecoming and having several bake sales at lunch. They also sold cookies at a dance and civic pride cleaner. The money from these activities went to the varsity cheerleaders for the purchasing of their new outfits.

This year freshman girls made up one-third of the gymnastic team. Those girls were Diane Sharpe, Debbie Stroud, Kathy Oberle and Dee Eversole.

Jus' havin' fun with her lil' friend Mickey Mouse in Mr. Byrket's 4th period drafting class is freshman Pam Eikenberry.

YEARBOOK STAFF

1976

IT'S FINALLY FINISHED!

The ratrace is over! No more hurrying to meet deadlines or sweating over missed ones. No more late tiresome hours of 3 to 4 A.M. wondering if we'd ever get the senior color sent to Dallas on time. No more strikes. No more firing squads, firing impossible questions. No more missing pictures. NO MORE FUN?

Now that the bombing has stopped, the smoke has cleared and mass-confusion is finally over in Bag End, commonly known as the darkroom, it is time to thank those who without their help and cooperation this book could not have been published.

First of all on behalf of my staff and myself, I would like to thank our yearbook advisor, Mr. Ken McCaslin, for his lasting patience, help and guidance all year long. No one really knew all the extra work and time he put in all year. He deserves more credit than credit can give. If not for his persistence and the help he gave me and the few staff members who came back almost everyday till three weeks after school was out to finish the book, it would not be here now. Thanks again Mr. McCaslin for everything!

I would also like to personally thank all the faculty and teachers for being so patient and understanding during all the missed, interrupted, and disturbed classes throughout the year. Also special thanks to Mr. Bastin for all the last minute arrangements, announcements and headaches we gave him all year long. Thanks to Mr. Jim Stevenson and Mr. Glen Hunt for kindly letting us use several of their photographs. And thanks to Joel Rhodes III whose information we borrowed to put together our special Bicentennial opening and closing sections on Historic Centerville.

As for my staff, no one could thank them enough for all the time, effort and hard work they put in after school as well as at home. Even though the staff was small, I feel they did an excellent job working hard putting out a Bicentennial book of which all could be proud.

they were fired upon with a cannon and had to retreat, returning the next day with troops to secure the records.

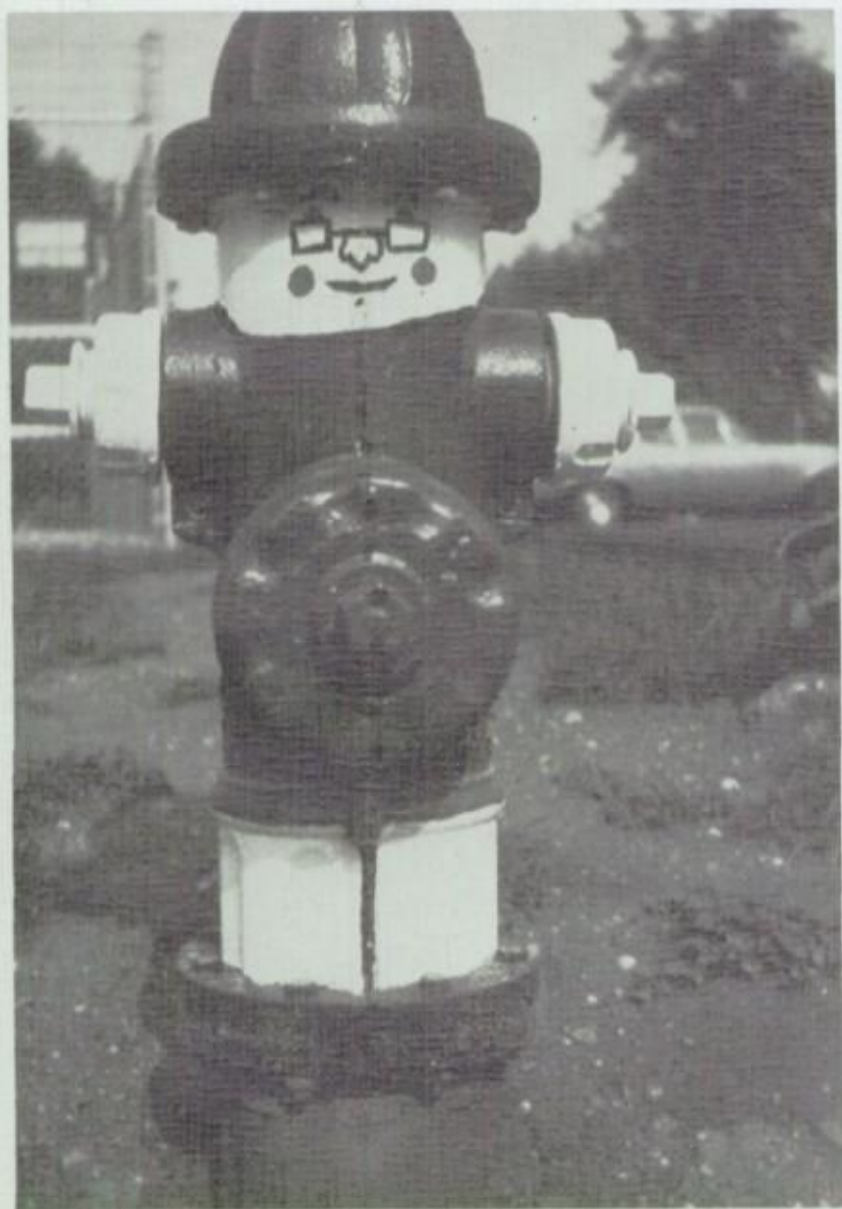

The town's cannon, 'Black Betty,' was taken to the blacksmith shop across the street and loaded with iron scraps. On order, the cannon was fired at the men from Richmond. The courthouse doors were blown off their hinges, and holes were made above the front door. These are still visible. Centerville gave up the county seat.

Today Centerville is a quiet community of about 2,500 residents. While signs of progress abound, traces of the past are almost everywhere as restoration efforts have revived many of the town's historical spots. The March 12, 1976 tornado, which damaged parts of the high school and elementary school and the 4-H buildings, spared all historical sites except the chimney of the old school. The chimney was leveled, hundreds of old trees destroyed, houses damaged, but no one was killed and only one person injured.

In observance of "Happy Birthday America," Centerville held a Liberty Pole raising during the spring with several high school students taking part. Bicentennial flags decorated Main Street and most of the town's fire plugs were given personality with paint and faces. The Bicentennial celebration here was highlighted by a special July parade featuring over 100 entries.
